FRANCIS ALBERT SINATRA,
aka. Frank Sinatra
SECURITY MATTER - C;
FRAUD AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

Rebulet to Los Angeles dated 3/18/55.

Considerable investigation has been conducted by the Los Angeles Office and other Bureau offices in connection with the instructions outlined in referenced letter. A review and analysis of the results of the investigation fails to develop any positive evidence connecting SINATRA with the Communist Party or the Communist Party movement.

In view of the foregoing, it is believed that the submission of a regular investigative report setting forth the results of the many interviews undertaken would be preferable to the preparation of a prosecutive summary due to the absence of the calibre of information which should logically be incorporated in a prosecutive summary report.

It is noted that the miscellaneous information furnished by informants in years past, and which was summarized by the Bureau in memorandum form dated 9/30/54, is essentially hearsay, most of which even if true, would have little probative value. The two most significant allegations contained in the summary are those set forth on Page 6, Paragraph 2, and Page 11, Paragraph 1. Reinvestigation of these two items brought forth the following results:

(1) Miami air-tel to the Bureau 9/13/55 sets forth the results of the interview with [redacted] informant who had reported in 1945 having heard CP leaders refer to FRANK SINATRA as a CP member and a former member of the American Youth for Democracy. On reinterview by the Miami Office, [redacted] reported that the information which he had previously reported was of a hearsay nature, having come to him from [redacted] an unknown woman who was [redacted] in 1945. [redacted] interviewed by the Miami Office, [redacted] stated that he had an understanding with the FBI that he would never be called to testify and that he still does not desire his identity disclosed. The Cleveland Office by air-tel 10/3/55 advised that [redacted] whose full name is [redacted] the Cleveland Office, and Cleveland recommended that he not be interviewed in connection with the foregoing. The Philadelphia Office by air-tel 10/6/55 advised that [redacted] is apparently the individual referred to by [redacted] above. Philadelphia stated that an interview with [redacted] was attempted under the Tolev Program on 10/29/52 and she proved to be uncooperative. (4)

(2) [redacted] had advised in 1944 that [redacted] by SAM FALKOW, a prominent CP member in Schenectady, New York, that FRANK SINATRA was an old member of the Young Communist League. [redacted] was reinterviewed 4/18/55 by the Albany Office and [redacted] his original information. Albany also interviewed [redacted] on 4/13/55, [redacted] never to have heard anything connecting FRANK SINATRA with the Communist Party or the Young Communist League. The Albany Office also reported two informants as relating that it was common practice of the Communist Party to use prominent names for their causes and to attribute to such individuals Communist Party membership. (4)

Several former Communist Party members in Hollywood, who have furnished reliable information in the past and who normally would have been in a position to know if SINATRA were connected with the Communist Party or the Communist Party movement, advised that they had no information that SINATRA was a member of the CP nor did they ever hear him referred to as such in Party circles or as being connected with the Communist movement.

Because of the foregoing, the Los Angeles Office contemplates the submission of a regular investigative report in this matter unless instructed by the Bureau to the contrary. Such report will be prepared and submitted to reach the Bureau within thirty days.

Underworld Tale For Bogart-Sinatra

Underworld U.S.A., now running as Stanley Kramer's [redacted] as an eight-part serial, has been acquired by Humphrey Bogart for filming with himself and Frank Sinatra in top roles, it was learned yesterday. About $100,000 was the price for the story, written by Joseph Dineen, who also wrote the Brink's robbery incident.

Either United Artists or Columbia may get the release, since Sinatra has a deal with the former and [redacted] has a commitment at the latter studio.

Sinatra Will Make World Charity Tour

Frank Sinatra will leave Hollywood at the completion of his next MGM picture, "High Society," and head a troupe of players on a five-week tour of European capitals on the first leg of a world's charity tour having been set up by John Haskell and TWA at the request of the U. S. State Department.

The Sinatra appearances will be accompanied by the shining lights of the entertainment world in each country, with all proceeds going to the favorite charity of the country where the appearances will be made.

After the first five weeks through Europe, Sinatra will return to Hollywood for a picture, on the completion of which he will take up the rest of the world's jaunt which is expected to take another five to seven weeks.

There is a possibility that Bing Crosby may join up with the entertainers either in Europe or when the players make the other half of the tour.

State Department Asks Sinatra Help Satchmo Put Russia On the Beat

Frank Sinatra may join Louis Armstrong in bringing a taste of American jazz culture to Russia.

Armstrong, who recently returned from a highly successful tour of Europe, has been discussing a tour of the Soviet Union under State Department auspices as part of the cultural exchange program. Yesterday, State Department contacted Sinatra to sound him out on the possibility of accompanying Armstrong.

Both are currently working in Metro's "High Society" and Sinatra had scheduled a European tour to follow his film stint in Stanley Kramer's "The Pride and the Passion." Discussions now are being held on the possibility of launching the tour of Russia as an extension of Sinatra's scheduled trek through several European countries on this side of the Iron Curtain.

Sinatra Lauded By Calif. Solon

Frank Sinatra was lauded [illegible] planned worldwide entertainment [illegible] charities by Rep. Clair [illegible] McDonough, R-Calif., in an insertion in the Congressional Record which appeared [illegible] Friday.

McDonough said: "It is worthy of remark how frequently Mr. Sinatra and his fellow artists in the realm of show business offer their time and talents to public-spirited enterprises. [illegible] infrequently the general public learns of their unselfish generosity."

The California Republican said that Sinatra, long an international favorite, is determined to show the world what can happen in America to a boy born in humble circumstances. The time taken from his busy and lucrative schedule will cost the singer thousands of dollars, but the world-wide acclaim, according to McDonough, will be worth it.

McDonough termed Sinatra "a truly great man for a better world," while citing the many charitable causes the singer-actor has aided. He added: "He should be considered a top humanitarian and a great American."

Sinatra Forms His Own Companies For TV, Feature Films

Frank Sinatra has incorporated two new independent film production companies, Trafalgar Productions, Inc., for feature motion picture production, and Bristol Productions, Inc., for TV film production.

Under the Bristol banner Sinatra will channel all future TV filming and live shows, including proposed film series and spectaculars. Sinatra has consistently refused network proposals to appear on a regular show under their aegis. It is now believed such offers will now be accepted through the new company. No date or property has been set for the initial production for TV, which, reportedly, will await the completion of "The Joe E. Lewis Story," which Sinatra will make as the first feature under the Trafalgar banner.

Listed with Sinatra as officers of the Bristol company are Henry W. Sanicola and Violet C. Kopp of the legal firm of Gang, Kopp and Tyre, who incorporated both companies.

Cohn Hustling Sinatra for 'Joey'

Harry Cohn is doing his best selling job trying to get Frank Sinatra for the title role of "Pal Joey" and Frankie Boy is not giving him much assistance. The prime reason for Sinatra's hesitancy is a flare back on the deal he was given on "From Here to Eternity," wherein Cohn paid him $8000 for the picture and necessitated Frank making two trips from Rome to Hollywood for tests, in addition to the fact that he has so many commitments it will be next to impossible for him to fit the picture in.

If Cohn fails on Sinatra, his next choice is Kirk Douglas.

Sinatra to Get 75 Pct. For Week's P.A. With 'Concho'

New York.—Frank Sinatra will headline the stage show at the Paramount Theatre here for one week beginning Aug. 15 when his first indie production, "Johnny Concho," premieres at the house. Sinatra is getting 75 percent of the house gross for his one-week personal stand during which he will do four shows daily and five on Saturday and Sunday. Unusual deal provides for film rental to start second week.

"Johnny Concho" is the first UA release to play the Paramount Theatre since 1930. UA also has set Norman Krasna's "The Ambassador's Daughter" to follow "Concho" at the house.

Sinatra Blames BMI Tunes for Career Dip

New York, Sept. 20. — Frank Sinatra charged today that his recording career at Columbia "quickly went into a decline" when the label's A&R chief Mitch Miller began giving him "inferior" material all of which "curiously bearing the BMI label." Charges were made in a telegram to the House Judiciary Committee Anti-Trust Sub-Division investigating tv.

Miller promptly retorted that 95% of Sinatra's material at Columbia under Miller's aegis had been ASCAP. He added, "It's a hell of a way to run a hearing when they accept telegrams as evidence."

Singer's telegram from Las Vegas asked for anti-trust action to abolish "practices which create restraint and take from the artist those creative freedoms which are so necessary to his talent."

Sinatra contended that before Miller became pop A&R chief at Columbia he enjoyed a free selection of material which "I may modestly say resulted in a modicum of success for me. Before Mr. Miller's advent I had a successful recording career which quickly went into a decline. Rather than continue a frustrating battle, I chose to take my talents elsewhere. It is now a matter of record that since I have associated myself with Capitol Records, a company free of broadcasting affiliations, my career is again financially, creatively and artistically healthy."

Miller said Sinatra owed Columbia $110,000 when he departed in 1952, the coin representing money advanced to pay back taxes and, presumably, advances against unrealized royalties. Firm now is earning this back, he added, on the re-issuance of old Sinatra sides.

Offer Sinatra 'Solo' Star Role At 20th

A deal is on for Frank Sinatra to co-star with June Allyson in the Buddy Adler production, "Solo," at 20th-Fox.

Dick Powell will direct pic, to roll when Sinatra completes "Pal Joey" at Columbia.

Sinatra is committed to 20th for one film, due to his walkout last year on "Carousel," which led to the studio's $1,000,000 suit against the singer-actor. Suit later was dropped when Sinatra agreed to make another pic. Currently Sinatra is working in "The Joker Is Wild," the Joe E. Lewis biopic, at Paramount.

All Three TV Webs Vie To Sign Frank Sinatra

Deals are in the works at the three networks for Frank Sinatra to head up his own tv show next season.

Tom McAvity, NBC veepee, and Al Scalpone, program veepee at CBS, both admitted yesterday that negotiations for Sinatra through the William Morris Agency have been in progress for several days, but that no conclusions have been reached.

Leonard Goldenson, AB-PT prexy, is due in today and will also enter the bidding for Sinatra.

Neither McAvity nor Scalpone have any special format in mind for the singer-actor, they said, but just now are interested only in getting his signature to an exclusive tv contract for next fall. None would discuss the terms.

SINATRA'S ESSEX ETCHERY BUILDING UP TALENT ROSTER; TO RELEASE WAX VIA CAP

Frank Sinatra is expanding his Essex Productions corporate entity to the status of a full-fledged independent record company and is beginning to make talent deals to build up a talent stable. Essex made its bow in the disk field as the producer of the "High Society" soundtrack album, which was released by Capitol.

Sinatra is nominally a Capitol artist. However, his disk contract, it was learned, is actually held by Essex which will produce all future Sinatra efforts for Capitol release. The setup thus gives the performer a capital gains status on his diskings, with the corporation thus reaping the royalty instead of it going to Sinatra as personal income.

In line with the projected build-up of Essex as a label on its own (with Capital, of course, handling the distribution), Sinatra and his manager, Hank Sanicola, are discussing a deal with the Beachcombers and Natalie, group current at the Sands, Las Vegas. Outfit has been tentatively set to cut some single releases within the next fortnight, the indication being that a firm contract will have been signed by that time.

Meanwhile, Essex apparently has the inside track for another Sinatra soundtrack album, the material that will evolve from his current starrer, "The Joker Is Wild," at Paramount. Sinatra is portraying Joe E. Lewis in the biopic, being made by another Sinatra corporation, Bristol.

Deal On For Sinatra To Star, As a Partner, In 'Kings Go Forth' Pic

Negotiations are underway toward a partnership deal in the filmization of "Kings Go Forth," Joe David Brown novel, wherein Frank Ross would produce and Frank Sinatra star in the joint venture. Ross, who acquired the book four months ago, is currently discussing such a partnership arrangement with Sinatra. Merle Miller has finished screenplaying World War II yarn.

Film may have a 20th-Fox release, although it hasn't been set yet. Plans are to shoot the picture in Europe.

Sinatra also disclosed yesterday that his UA starrer, "Johnny Concho," made by his own indie company for $500,000, is expected to achieve a world gross of $2,500,000, according to UA prexy Arthur Krim.

Star, currently playing the title role in the Joe E. Lewis biopic, "The Joker," at Paramount, is already booked through 1957. He opens for two-week stand at the Sands, Las Vegas, Dec. 19, thence to NY's Copacabana for two weeks and then a fortnight in Australia. Actor-singer thereafter returns here to star in Columbia's filmization of "Pal Joey," starting in February.

Following "Joey," Sinatra will produce and star in "What Makes Sammy Run," but while this will be with his own indie company, it won't necessarily be a UA release, Sinatra says. After "Sammy" would come "Kings," if that deal jells and the star is already considering several projects for 1958.

Reason For Sinatra's TVitality: Can Get Residuals Faster Than % Coin From Pix

Frank Sinatra, who tees off his own telefilm series on ABC-TV Oct. 18, disclosed yesterday that his principal reason for entering the weekly tv sweepstakes was the residuals involved—"so that I can set aside a trust fund for my three children and Nancy." The latter is the former Mrs. Sinatra.

Star, currently working in "Pal Joey" at Columbia, said "For years I've been looking to get into a position to set up a trust fund for them, and this is the one way I can do it. It takes longer to get your money back from pictures in which you have a participation." Sinatra has a 25% piece of "Joey," as does director George Sidney. He owns 65% of "Johnny Concho," his United Artists film which cost $364,000 and has grossed around $1,500,000 to date, he revealed.

Sinatra said he didn't fear the possibility of over-exposure via a tv series. "I can't believe, that if you do a good job—assuming the pictures I've done have been successes—that doing tv on top of that and giving the viewers a show of calibre will hurt me. If I did one running character, I'd be killed. But we have a change of pace, and we're going to hang our hat on versatility. We're not going to try to fool the audience; we will give honest performances.

"There's been talk I make too many records, but they sell. And everytime we put out an album, each one is an entirely different kind. I'll go from swing to ballads, and so on. I think the same thing will hold true in tv. I will be in 13 musical half-hours and 13 dramatic shows, and will host 10 dramatic shows. In addition, I will star in two spectaculars," he said.

Sinatra's $3,000,000 deal with ABC-TV is a record budget for any half-hour series, even allowing for the fact that figure includes the two spex.

Sinatra said he hopes to shoot his 13 musical shows in a total of 13 days, or 20 at the outside. "It can be done. Our theory is it's like a live tv show. We will rehearse fully, and then shoot. And we plan to work from noon until 8 p.m. I think we can do a better job that way. We've been following that practice on 'Pal Joey,' and will come in two weeks ahead of schedule," he added.

Sinatra's first tv chores for ABC-TV will be a spec aired Oct. 18 from Hollywood. Bob Hope has been set, and he is negotiating for Kim Novak, from the "Joey" film, and Dinah Shore to do a satirical version of "Joey." He will also utilize the spec to plug his series, which tees off the following week.

For his musical shows, Sinatra is negotiating for Peggy Lee, Patti Page, Sammy Davis, Jr., Dan Dailey, Artur Rubinstein, Bing Crosby, Phil Harris, Nat ("King") Cole. Sinatra's children, Frank, Nancy and Tina, will appear in two or three musical shows individually as performers, he added.

Sinatra will direct at least a couple of the dramatic shows. "I intend to go in that direction in movies, too," he added.

He plans to negotiate with American Tobacco Co. for the services of Jack Benny to appear on his Feb. 14 spec, since there's a matter of conflicting sponsors involved, Sinatra being bankrolled by Chesterfield and Benny by Lucky Strike. "I hope to break down that age-old barrier of sponsor conflict," he said.

In addition, he is negotiating with Orson Welles for one of the dramatic shows. Sinatra said he would like to use names in half of the 10 dramatic episodes, and good but not star actors in the others. "There are some good actors, like Bob Strauss and Arnold Stang, who have never had a star chance. I would like to star them in shows, and just play a bit—one or two minutes—myself in those particular episodes. For example, I saw Jackie Coogan as the cook in 'Forbidden Area' on Playhouse 90. I thought he was just great, and we were looking for somebody to play Swifty Morgan, at 40, in 'The Joker Is Wild.' I called the studio and suggested Coogan for the part, and they signed him," he said.

William Self is producer of Sinatra's vidpix series, which goes into production July 9 at the Goldwyn Studios, with the 13 musicals first on the agenda. They will then start on the dramatics, but Sinatra will have to leave early in fall for France and his next starrer, "Kings Go Forth," in which he is partnered with Frank Ross. Upon his return, he will complete the vidfilms. Ric Morrow has been signed to write the musicals, and Jack Donahue is director. Nelson Riddle is conductor-arranger for the musicals.

Sinatra's deal with ABC-TV calls for a 60-40 split on residuals, with the star receiving the bigger chunk.

Sinatra Charges Col Disks' Mitch Miller 'Admitted' Kickbacks From Songwriters

Washington, Aug. 26. — Frank Sinatra teed off today against Mitch Miller, artists-and-repertoire head of Columbia Records, and in favor of legislation to bar broadcasters from owning music publishing and recording firms.

In a wire to Senator George A. Smathers (D., Fla.), Sinatra [redacted]

"I congratulate you on your courage and statesmanship in fighting this battle for the public. It is very comforting to know that through your efforts the U. S. Senate is taking action to prevent broadcasters from plugging the songs they own and burying the songs they don't own."

Sinatra then charged that Mitch Miller "had admitted under oath recently that he took la[redacted]s of money from writers whose songs he recorded."

Sinatra said that in recent "testimony," Miller, "the man who decides which songs are recorded by Columbia Records had recently admitted under oath 'Bob Merrill would bring all the songs to me first. After the songs were a hit, I got a check from his royalties to me. It amounted to $5,000 or $6,000 —different checks'."

New York, Aug. 26. — In refutation to Frank Sinatra's charges, Mitch Miller tonight stated:

"Sinatra has taken isolated portions of my testimony and has put them together in a manner that distorts completely the nature of my testimony."

Sinatra Drops Look Mag Libel Suit, New Case To Test Right To Privacy

Frank Sinatra will attempt to clarify rights to privacy of personalities in the public eye, he stated yesterday in dismissing his $2,300,000 libel suit against Look mag in Federal Court. In joint agreement with Look, he then filed a test suit in Superior Court here for invasion of privacy.

New action, which doesn't specify damages beyond the statutory $3,000 minimum, will assume that the Look articles published earlier this year about Sinatra were printed in good faith. However, suit will attempt to determine right of the press to "delve into, and disclose, the personal or private—as distinguished from the professional and public—aspects of an entertainer's life," according to joint statement issued by Sinatra and Look reps.

In joint statement, Sinatra continued that he didn't deny the right to discuss or criticize his professional activities, but unless the privacy issue was settled, a "public figure" was "a second-class citizen, in that he is denied rights which others enjoy." He's bringing the Superior Court suit specifically to settle these issues, since he understands the courts have never really established such rights to privacy, he commented.

Further, test case involving Look would be a good one because the mag is of "recognized standing—not an expose or scandal-type publication—and the decision will be by the courts of California, where so many entertainment personalities and a large segment of the entertainment industry is headquartered."

Speaking for Look, v.p. John F. Harding hoped that the case might settle the issue for all communication media. Mag's position is that "any entertainment personality who manifests a desire for publicity as to his professional and public activities and affairs cannot simply turn on publicity as he wants, or needs it, and turn it off at other times, or sift and strain it as he wishes," according to the statement. The press has the right to publish facts as to all public figures . . . "not simply as professional performers, but also as persons."

Meanwhile, Sinatra and Look have cancelled their agreement, under which the singer-actor was to have written a by-lined autobiog for publication in the mag.

Sinatra Year Plan: ABC Spex Only, 3 Theatrical Films

Frank Sinatra will be given a year's hiatus from his ABC-TV contract to fulfill commitments for three theatrical pictures, in which the web participates as a partner in his organization. If time between pictures allows, he'll do some live spex, but a regular weekly series is not in the net's plans for next season.

Sinatra will be one of 12 whose shows will not be back on ABC-TV next season. Others being closed out after this season are Sid Caesar-Imogene Coca, "Navy Log," "Circus Boy," "Broken Arrow," "Tombstone Territory," "Jim Bowie," Walter Winchell, Patrice Munsel, "Love That Jill," Betty White and "West Point."

As against these strike-outs, ABC-TV has 14 renewals and seven new shows firmed to date for next fall.

ABC HAS STAKE IN SINATRA'S DEAL WITH MGM

Contracts have been finalized between MGM and Frank Sinatra whereby the actor-singer will star in three pictures during the next two years.

Deal involves Sinatra's own company, Hobart Prods. Consequently, inasmuch as ABC is partnered with Sinatra in Hobart, ABC will share in the Sinatra - Hobart - MGM deal. Sinatra, meantime, will limit his TV activities for the coming season to occasional guest appearances.

First MGM vehicle for Sinatra will be the film version of "Some Came Running," novel by James Jones. Film will be personally produced by Sol C. Siegel, from a John Patrick screenplay. Following, Sinatra will star in "Devil May Care," original comedy to be produced and directed by its writer, Carson Kanin. The third film has not yet been determined.

profits with Sinatra's company, Hobart Productions, which is a party to the deal.

First on Sinatra's schedule will be the film version of James Jones' "Some Came Running," which will be a personal production of studio topper Sol C. Siegel. John Patrick will do the screenplay. Second on the slate will be Garson Kanin's comedy, "Devil May Care," which Kanin will also produce and direct. A third is still to be selected.

The deal is the first major one negotiated since Siegel's takeover of studio reins and apparently is a reversal of the exec's previous stand that he would not have any personal productions.

Sinatra has decided to limit his tv activities to occasional guest appearances to concentrate on film production, and the intensity of the schedule also means that his nitery spots will also be of necessity limited.

Monte Carlo.—We have seen Frank Sinatra in many of his nightclub and hotel engagements over the years—from the era of The Big Swoon effect on audiences to that point some years ago when many rated him washed up as a singer, just prior to his tremendous resurgence.

The two greatest performances of his entire career, we believe, were two singing engagements for which he received no pay whatever. One was the night we heard him during that memorable 11-day stand at the Mocambo after the death of Charlie Morrison; the other was here in Monte Carlo, when he sang for the better part of an hour to highlight a benefit gala for Princess Grace's UN Refugee Children's Fund, following the world premiere of "Kings Go Forth". On both occasions, singing sans pay, Sinatra sang from a heart much larger than his body.

The affair at The Sporting Club here found Sinatra singing before one of the greatest glamour audiences even he has faced and, in turn, one of the most enthusiastic. This bejeweled gathering, the creme de la creme of the French Riviera, plus others flown in from all over Europe and the U.S., went wild with applause, cheering at the windup in hope Frank would warble another hour. It was that sort of a great, triumphal performance only a Sinatra can accomplish.

Another unusual aspect of the gala was that, when the evening came to an end, many in the plush audience stood in line in The Sporting Club lobby to buy some of the hundreds of albums Frank had flown in from Hollywood to add to the benefit fund, swelling it to $55,000 for the evening.

Those fortunate enough to have attended "An Evening With Frank Sinatra", following the opening of "Kings Go Forth", got the full impact of Sinatra at his entertainment peak—for he is at his best when doing something to help others.

Luckily, there will be reprise of this great performance, for there will be another "Evening With Sinatra" following the L.A. opening of "Kings Go Forth" at the Fox Beverly July 2—with all proceeds to The Cedars Of Lebanon. If you already have not got in tickets, try to get them. Don't miss what is certain to be one of the great evenings of entertainment in all Hollywood annals.

Sinatra Film Sked Extends Into 1960

Frank Sinatra returned to Hollywood over the weekend from location filming in Indiana on MGM's "Some Came Running" and laid out a feature film schedule calculated to keep him active through mid-1960.

In early November, after completion of his current MGM starrer, Sinatra will begin filming "All My Tomorrows" (previously titled "Hole in the Head"), in which he co-stars with Edward G. Robinson and Carolyn Jones for UA release. Early next spring, Sinatra will star in his Hobart Productions' "Oceans 11," now being screenplayed by Dick Breen, which will co-star Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr. adn Peter Lawford, for Warners.

Early next summer, Sinatra wings to France to co-star with Brigitte Bardot in Columbia's "Paris At Night," upon completion of which he returns to MGM to star in "Never So Few," following which he's scheduled to do Garson Kanin's "Devil May Care," early in 1960.

(Running time — 118 minutes)

You need "A Hole in the Head" whether you are a ticket-buyer or an exhibitor. It's a double guarantee to surefire entertainment. First, there is Frank Sinatra, whom youthful audiences will find as modern as hi-fi and as pungent as a cup of expresso. Then, there is Frank Capra, the first director whose name, following the advent of talkies, attained a marquee value equal or greater than that of any star. Beginning with his sensational "It Happened One Night," Capra never made a flop. Up until his temporary retirement about eight years ago, he created a succession of the finest comedy dramas in the history of show business. Now he is back with all his past techniques in full blossom and with a wonderfully new ability to capture the flavor of our times. The result is a full-bodied comedy that registers its success not in chuckles but in roars.

Arnold Schulman's screenplay successfully expands his stage play until it contains all the ingredients for a Capra hit. These are so time-tested that it's a wonder other directors haven't latched onto them during Capra's absence. First of all (as in his "Lady For a Day") there is a solid emotional basis that gives one something to pull for. And this appeal expresses itself in conflict. Sinatra is a good natured, irresponsible visionary whose urge to fly off beyond the horizon is constantly at war with his devotion to his motherless son. Though he calls the kid a "nag" there is really a joyous companionship between them. The boy is played by Eddie Hodges, who scored a hit in the stage production of "The Music Man," and he's a real screen find, who will remind one of such previous youthful naturals as Jackie Cooper and Shirley Temple. He gets over a strange knowingness regarding his pop's desires to grab a fast buck and to make time with the dames. Sinatra, never playing down to the boy, establishes a very believable and lovable relationship with the kid that no audience will want to see destroyed.

But it constantly is threatened. Sinatra's only possession is a mortgaged, down - at - heel Florida hotel. Despite the fact that he's on the verge of losing it, he dreams of getting in the chips by promoting an east coast Disneyland. One of the facets of Capra's genius is his ability to give a change of pace to a straight-line story by developing a whole series of well-rounded and fullly developed incidental characters. In this case, there is a marvelous beatnik (played with weird fascination by Carolyn Jones) who's constantly making ineffectual attempts to have Sinatra run away with her. Then there is Sinatra's hard-working and completely "square" brother, Edward G. Robinson, whom Sinatra, by devious schemes, tries to put the bite on. If this picture, in which all parts are played to perfection, has any standouts, they are delivered by the penny-pinching Robinson and his sentimental wife (Thelma Ritter). Little Caesar has become a great comedian. Confident of their abilities to sustain each other, Capra gives Robinson and Ritter long scenes together, without breaking his camera setup and the laughs come so thick and fast one is bound to miss some of the dialogue. There's a marvelous running gag (a typical Capra invention) built around a platform rocking chair that knocks Robinson on the head every time he sits in it.

Robinson's solution for all ills is to get Sinatra married off to somebody with money. Thelma knows a wealthy widow. As played by that stunning redhead, Eleanor Parker, she turns out to be quite a dish, and gives a brilliant performance. Her encounter with Sinatra occurs in a daintily furnished apartment, so crowded with feminine furbelows that the characters are obliged to move crabwise whenever they pass each other. With every touch affecting them, they play a torturous love scene without an embrace. Miss Parker gives a touching portrayal of a passionate but decent woman yearning to replace the husband and son she lost in a recent accident. Some quixotic quality in Sinatra makes him recognize that she "isn't a broad." So he tells her the whole marriage for money plot and departs, breaking her heart.

Putting up a false front, Sinatra next crashes the party of a crass and boisterous old buddy (Keenan Wynn) who along with his body guards and dreamboat blonde secretary (Joi Lansing) has come south to play the big shot at the dog races. Here Capra recaptures the mood of frenetic spectacular uproar, with tragic undertones, that he created so ably in "Broadway Bill." Having lost his last nickel, Sinatra deliberately tries to alienate the love of his son so that he will go away with Robinson. There is a happy but topsy-turvy ending in which Sinatra isn't reformed but Robinson is. He decides to stop selling garter belts to become a bum too. You feel that he has enough dough to support them all in a crazy happy sort of vagabondage.

This is a warm, human and thoroughly entertaining comedy in which Sinatra casually works in a couple of good songs, "All My Tomorrows" and "High Hopes" (both by Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Heusen). Like the talented and self-assured star that he is, Sinatra allows even minor members of the suporting cast to have big moments. These include Jimmy Komack, as Robinson's amiably stupid son, Dub Taylor as a boll weevil don't-give-a-damn Southern desk clerk, and Connie Sawyer who gives the production two hilarious punctuations as a loop-legged drunk.

Photography, in CinemaScope and De Luxe Color, by William H. Daniels records the glamour of tropical nights and the detail of sun drenched days on the beach with perfection. This is a film that should spell big business.

— Jack Moffitt.

Sinatra 'Slovik' Director

Frank Sinatra, who purchased film rights a month ago to the controversial William Bradford Huie novel, "The Execution of Private Slovik," over the weekend revealed he also plans directing the film. Development will mark Sinatra's debut as a motion picture director; he will also produce the film under his Essex Prods. banner, but will not act in it.

[redacted] telephonically advised on 3-22-60 the following info based on [redacted]

TRUMBO will today or tomorrow (3/22 or 3/23) file for reinstatement as a member of the WGA,w. About 3 years ago TRUMBO formed a California corporation, called SPRINGFIELD PRODUCTIONS, to conceal his writing activities during the period he regarded himself as a "blacklisted" writer. TRUMBO'S attorney for the corporation is AUBREY FINN. When he is cleared for return to WGA,w membership, TRUMBO will file about 30 pseudonyms or pen names he has used as his writing names. His most recent was the name SAM JACKSON which he used in doing the script for "Spartacus" which he wrote for Bryna Productions (a KIRK DOUGLAS producing company).

Credits for "Spartacus" may be held up until it is decided whether the company will give the writing credits openly to TRUMBO or to his pseudonym SAM JACKSON.

b7D

Although he will reveal his pen names and his contracts in past years while he was out of the Guild, TRUMBO is hesitant about revealing the names of people who helped him out duing the lean years with writing assignments when he was "blacklisted".

In regard to the ALBERTMALTZ-FRANK SINATRA deal which hit the press this date, TRUMBO [redacted] that in his opinion, it was a bad thing politically. SINATRA was asked to hold off confirming the deal by Senator JOHN KENNEDY who is the brother-inlaw of PETER LAWFORD, producing partner of FRANK SINATRA in the venture. KENNEDY felt it would be bad publicity for him prior to the primaries in the state of New Hampshire. Following KENNEDY'S success in that primary, however, together with the apology the Republicans made to KENNEDY following the charge by some N.H. official that KENNEDY "was soft on Communists", the KENNEDY interests felts it would not hurt to go ahead and release the news of the SINATRA-MALTZ deal.

According to TRUMBO, MALTZ is currently at the Barbizon-Plaza, NYC just prior to going to Europe.

In regard to the CP, TRUMBO admitted [redacted] that he had been a member once, but had not been affiliated for years. However after he gets back into the Guild, TRUMBO would like to help MIKE WILSON, RING LARDNER, HUGO BUTLER, [redacted] in.

This property has been offered around the industry for some years but rejected as unsuitable for export as Un-American, etc. [redacted] info is that the Defense Department has refused to cooperate or give its facilities because of the subject matter. [redacted] says that probably SINATRA himself will direct but not appear in the picture.

SINATRA and MALTZ are not strangers, according to [redacted] MALTZ wrote "The World We Live In" for SINATRA around 1946 which was a United Nations project. Film and TV star PETER LAWFORD is reported to be SINATRA'S partner and the brother-in-law of U.S. [redacted] presidential aspirant.

DALTON TRUMBO uses what is called a personal services corporation (a Calif. Corporation) as a front for his writing activities. His under-the-table writing deals in past years have been made by employing this company so that his own name never has appeared in pictures for which he has written the scripts. Apparently the only "asset" of the corporation is TRUMBO. TRUMBO'S attorney is AUBREY FINN.

TRUMBO has applied for reinstatement to membership in WGA, w, and will probably make it.

Rmytoletype 3/22/60 re publicity surrounding recent FRANK SINATRA-ALBERT MALTZ deal.

On 3/23/60, [redacted] a one-time contact and source of this office [redacted] furnished the following information to [redacted] This information is hearsay insofar as [redacted] is concerned, but he noted that some of it is not based on eye witnesses and some of it is speculation around the Warner Bros. Studios since the confirmation of the SINATRA-MALTZ tie-up.

b7D

One of SINATRA's producing companies, DORCHESTER PRODUCTIONS, made the picture "Ocean's 11," which is a gangster story about some stick-up men robbing the gambling casinos at Las Vegas. LEWIS MILESTONE was the director on that film, and appearing in the picture are SAMMY DAVIS, JR., the colored star, PETER LAWFORD, SINATRA's producing partner and brother-in-law of Senator JOHN KENNEDY, DEAN MARTIN and others.

The film company was on location some of the time in recent weeks at Las Vegas. Much of the picture, however, was shot at Warner Bros. lot in California although Warners has no interest in the film and merely leased location space, certain equipment and facilities to DORCHESTER PRODUCTIONS.

Source [redacted] talk of various cameramen and other technicians who were at the Las Vegas location that while the company was there Senator JOHN KENNEDY visited the location and was in frequent contact with various members of the company including Negro star SAMMY DAVIS, JR., who furnished his personal automobile for the senator's use. DAVIS's personal colored chauffeur was assigned exclusively to the job of taking Senator KENNEDY wherever he wanted to go. b7D

The following is strictly speculation of various people around Warner Bros.: Senator KENNEDY is not cognizant of the way Hollywood people operate. SINATRA does not have enough brains himself to know whether ALBERT MALTZ is a good, bad or indifferent writer. It is speculated that someone, possibly [redacted] (Bufile 100-56069), who was in the past at [redacted] very close to the CP, may have influenced SINATRA to tie up with ALBERT MALTZ; that someone is or may be trying to promote SINATRA, SAMMY DAVIS, JR., and their crowd as "fair-haired boys" known to Senator KENNEDY in case the senator gets to the White House. b7C

It is further speculated that SINATRA, although an established film and TV star for some years, does not have the kind of money necessary to finance such pictures as "Ocean's 11" by his DORCHESTER COMPANY or the proposed film "Execution of Private Slovik" by his REMEX COMPANY; that SINATRA may, through PETER LAWFORD and LAWFORD's wife, have been able to get Senator KENNEDY to take a financial interest in SINATRA's producing enterprises.

It is noted that at this time this office has no information to verify any of the above data; but any additional information obtained will be furnished for the Bureau's information.

Sinatra Refuses to Back Down

FRANK SINATRA reminds me of the tough little boy who won't back down. He hired a Communist and probably will let himself get stuck with him at any cost. Frank has done a reprehensible thing in sponsoring a subversive who would destroy everything Americans hold dear.

Sinatra realizes he did the wrong thing but, howsoever indefensible, come hell or high water, Sinatra won't back down an inch. This sort of reasoning was drilled into Frank somewhere along the line, probably as a youngster in New Jersey.

He thinks it shameful to holler "uncle" or admit to a serious blunder. He would rather take a beating than apologize. Under the pounding of a bully he'd refuse to "take it back." And that is too bad in this case—too bad for Frank Sinatra, and too bad for the nation that makes Frank Sinatras possible.

I like Sinatra. I have known him quite a few years. He is fun to be around. He is a nice guy in many ways and in many ways there is much goodness in him. Still there are other things which make you think about the line "own worst enemy." It is his personal poison for which there seems to be no antidote.

Frank has his philosophies and they ring with sincerity. He champions minorities, and that is commendable. Sammy Davis Jr., who happenes to be a Negro, is one of his closest pals. Frank has done much to further Sammy's career. Of course, Davis has tremendous talent and is a great star in his own right. Sammy never needed much help, but Sinatra is the kind who would militantly demand that Sammy got all that was coming to him. You can't argue against that.

BUT YOU CAN argue against Sinatra's incredible action this time. Screenwriter Maltz, whom Frank hired, no doubt is an oppressed individual in Sinatra's estimation. This man has every right to be oppressed. In the talent department, he is no Sammy Davis. He is no Sammy Davis, either, when it comes to staunch Americanism. The best thing that can happen to Maltz is to send him to his beloved Russia.

Most of all, I'd like to see Sinatra back down for once. Unfortunately, as mentioned before, I don't think he knows how. Here is a little story about Frank. It tends to show what I mean.

A few years ago Dorothy Gray (Mrs. Harry Joe Brown) gave a party at Donald Duncan's home in Palm Springs. Sinatra and our mutual friend, Jimmy Van Heusen, already were there when I arrived. One of the guests insulted Frank, or at least, Frank considered himself insulted. I didn't hear what was said. The guest was quite a prominent man—and a pretty husky one, too, illustrating that Sinatra wasn't picking a push-over. Sinatra belted the man so hard he was taken to a hospital.

The injured guest was furious. He threatened all kinds of lawsuits and it looked as though Frank was in for a lot of unhappy publicity. Sinatra's career wasn't doing too well at the time. He couldn't afford notoriety.

I tried to placate the victim—which wasn't easy. He didn't like me, either—and I guess that went vice versa. Finally, I told him I'd get Frank to apologize if he'd let everything drop. I went to Frank's Palm Springs home that night, but he wouldn't budge. I went over again the next morning and Sinatra decided it would be better to get things settled amicably.

I drove him over to see his spar-mate of the night before. "All you have to say is 'I'm sorry,' and shake hands," I told Sinatra. I told him he didn't have to mean it—to just say it. Frank agreed.

BUT ONCE Frank saw the fellow, he lost his courage. He couldn't force himself to say "I'm sorry." The thought of it rebelled in his mind. So Frank blurted out a gruff "hello" and held out his hand. He still couldn't stand to apologize, no matter what it might have cost him—career, money or anything.

Inasmuch as I have yet to meet the perfect human being, I don't censure him, for I know him. And I know too, that what he has done hurts him deep inside and causes his mind to churn when he goes to bed at night. Regardless, Frank can't stand to holler "uncle" . . . more appropriately in this case, "Uncle Sam," who is hurting, too.

[redacted] TRUMBO on that day had been in telephonic contact with ALBERT MALTZ in Rome; that whereas TRUMBO had previously characterized MALTZ as "recalcitrant" about seeking reinstatement in the Guild, MALTZ is now favorable and will cable the Guild his intention to apply for readmission. According to TRUMBO, ALBERT MALTZ claims he was not aware that FRANK SINATRA's company, Essex Productions, is currently on the Guild's strike list; that MALTZ says he will do no writing for SINATRA until SINATRA's company reached agreement and a contract with WGA, w.

b7D

[redacted] SINATRA's company has signed agreement with the striking Screen Actors Guild (SAG), but not yet with the striking Writers Guild; further that although SINATRA himself may not have known he had to have a contract with the Writers Guild at the time he made the deal with ALBERT MALTZ to write "Execution of Private Slivik", nevertheless, SINATRA's and MALTZ's lawyers and agents must have known it.

[redacted] TRUMBO was dropped from membership by the Guild for non-payment of dues and for lack of screen credits over a period of time, that is to say, the termination of TRUMBO's membership originated with the Guild itself under its by-laws. MALTZ, on the other hand, terminated his affiliation with the Guild himself some years ago. MALTZ quit the Guild of his own volition in considerable anger and eventually went to Mexico when the Guild amended its constitution and basic agreement with the producers to include a clause prohibiting Guild membership to Communist Party members or those who refused to answer questions of the House Committee or other duly constituted body.

[redacted] the circumstances of MALTZ's departure from the Guild may be a considerable stumbling block to the favorable consideration of his application for reinstatement if and when he formally makes it.

[redacted] however, are of the opinion that the TRUMBO reinstatement will set a precedent for the readmission into the Guild of such writers as PAUL JARRICO (Bufile 100-233250); [redacted] RING LARDNER, JR. (Bufile 100-295885); HOWARD BUTLER (Bufile 100-321017); and probably others who have defied HCUA on constitutional grounds in past years.

JARRICO and [redacted] are currently residing in France. BUTLER resides in Mexico.

Developments will be reported.

THOMAS's reinstatement as a member of WGA,W is now an accomplished fact; however, there is considerable opposition to him, [redacted] the Guild Disciplinary Committee is currently engaged in trying to collect evidence that THOMAS may have been in direct violation of a Guild rule which says in part that no Guild member or former member can make or negotiate any deal or contract with a producing company while such company is on the Guild's strike list. The same thing is true of ALBERT MAltZ, who has applied for readmission into the Guild.

Although KIRK DOUGLAS' production company, Bryna Productions, and OTTO PREMINGER's company have now signed agreements with the Guild, both companies were on the Guild's strike list for a time. THOMAS wrote "Spartacus" for Bryna and is under contract to PREMINGER for "Exodus". ALBERT MALTZ was replaced by THOMAS to do "Exodus". If the Guild can find evidence that THOMAS and/or MALTZ did any work at all on either of these productions while the respective companies were on the strike list, then under both the Taft-Hartley Law and the Writers Guild constitution, THOMAS and MALTZ could be classified as "strike-breakers". TRUMBO could be characterized as a "fink", that is, a union member or former union member who engages in strike breaking activity. In such a case, TRUMBO could be ousted from Guild membership for life, and MALTZ could not become a Guild member. Head of the Guild Disciplinary Committee is writer SAM [redacted] who is very anti-TRUMBO and MALTZ.

On March 30, 1960, ALBERT MALTZ applied by cable from abroad for reinstatement to Guild membership, stating he had no desire to be a strike breaker, and that his deal with FRANK SINATRA was contingent upon SINATRA's company signing with the Writers Guild. As of this date, SINATRA has not signed with the Guild and his is one of the few remaining independent producing companies who are still holding out from negotiating with the Guild for a new contract.

MALTZ' application to the Guild has not been made public yet. It may be that the Guild may go through the formality of accepting MALTZ and then expel him for strike breaking if it should appear they can prove such activity.

As of March 30, 1960, ALBERT MALTZ was at the King George Hotel in Athens, but according to TRUMBO, is en route to Israel where either MALTZ or his wife, MARGARET, is gathering data for a book on that country.

TRUMBO has been invited by OTTO PREMINGER to come to Israel where PREMINGER's company is on location making "Exodus"; however, TRUMBO does not contemplate the trip because of the illness of his mother. It is not necessary for TRUMBO to be with the company merely because he is doing the script.

In regard to the 12 pseudonyms used by TRUMBO which he has filed with the Guild, as [redacted] in referenced airtel, March 30, 1960, TRUMBO tells [redacted] that only two of these ever appeared on the screen [redacted], namely ROBERT RICH and KHIRAMAN E. HUNTER. The other pseudonyms have been used to cover TRUMBO's identity in his dealings with Springfield Productions, which [redacted] believes was a company set up for that purpose, that is, Springfield Productions "loaned out" TRUMBO's writing services under the various names as noted.

[redacted] Sinatra, hiring Albert [redacted], convicted Commy writer. And his explanation is irritating to the people who see his movies, buy his records and stand on line for hours to watch him perform in person—not forgetting the Gold-Star families whose men were killed in Korea and other place by Communists: That he hired Mills because he couldn't find anyone else who quite understood the theme [illegible] with Sinatra, Stanley Kramer, Otto Preminger, and all those the-hell-with-what-you-think, universe-guys considering themselves second and this country first.

Frankly Speaking to Frank

On returning from New York I found more than 100 letters on my desk protesting Frank Sinatra's hiring of Commie Albert Maltz to write the script of "The Execution of Private Slovik." I tried to reach Frank, but he was unavailable. He's given several reasons why he did this but none has met with approval of real Americans. Personally, I don't believe the story should be filmed. The Producers Assn. has no jurisdiction over what Sinatra does since he is not a member of the organization. But the people have the privilege of refusing to see his picture if it's ever made. If Sinatra loves his country he won't do this. He'll write off the cost of the story and forget it. But will he? That's the question. He's stubborn, but not viciously pigheaded. He has a fine family of which he's proud. Will he do this to them?

STATEMENT

In view of the reaction of my family, my friends and the American public, I have instructed my attorneys to make a settlement with Albert Maltz and to inform him that he will not write the screenplay for "The Execution of Private Slovik."

I had thought the major consideration was whether or not the resulting script would be in the best interests of the United States. Since my conversations with Mr. Maltz had indicated that he has an affirmative, pro-American approach to the story, and since I felt fully capable as producer of enforcing such standards, I have defended my hiring of Mr. Maltz.

But the American public has indicated it feels the morality of hiring Albert Maltz is the more crucial matter, and I will accept this majority opinion.

Public 'Reaction' Prompts Sinatra To Fire Maltz

Frank Sinatra is paying off Albert Maltz and simultaneously firing him off the assignment to screenplay "The Execution Of Pvt. Slovik" following the tidal wave of reaction against Sinatra's action in hiring the member of "the Hollywood Ten" who refused to answer whether he was or is a Communist when haled before the House Un-American Activities Committee more than a decade ago.

Sinatra, in a statement issued Friday, said:

"In view of the reaction of my family, my friends and the American public, I have instructed my attorneys to make a settlement with Albert Maltz and to inform him that he will not write the screenplay for 'The Execution Of Private Slovik.'

"I had thought the major consideration was whether or not the resulting script would be in the best interests of the United States. Since my conversations with Mr. Maltz had indicated that he had an affirmative, pro-American approach to the story, and since I felt fully capable as producer of enforcing such standards, I have defended my hiring of Mr. Maltz.

"But the American public has indicated it feels the morality of hiring Albert Maltz is the more crucial matter, and I will accept this majority opinion."

After hiring Maltz, Sinatra was denounced in many quarters and subsequently took trade ads on March 28, declaring, among other views, "I am in complete accord with the statement . . . by J. D. Nicola of the Catholic Legion of Decency, who said, 'The Legion evaluates films on the basis of art, not the artists'."

Last week Nicola observed that Sinatra's "inference was unfair"; that the Legion, while it evaluates pix "on the basis of art, not the artists," nevertheless is very unlikely to approve such a deal as that made with Maltz.

Nicola also noted that as a member of the lay advisory board of the Legion he was not at any time speaking for the policy of the reviewing group on any specific matter—such as Sinatra's hiring of Maltz.

There is a salutary lesson in the ~~stampeding~~ national protest that induced Frank Sinatra to change his mind about hiring a communist to do a screenplay for him.

No man in this country is big enough to be a law unto himself. The American Way that makes it possible for a man to become rich and famous, that gives him a legal right theoretically to do as he pleases, also requires him to realize certain moral and social obligations that all must observe for mutual safety.

There are many products and talents in which America excels Russia, but rather than hand us any rubles for our "best" the Reds will take their own ~~second-best~~.

Patriotic Americans will gladly do likewise.

[redacted] and he had nothing else to go on with the exception of the fact that FRANK SINATRA, singer, actor, producer, had recently announced the hiring of screen writer ALBERT MALTZ to work on a film scheduled for production by SINATRA. MALTZ, one of the "Hollywood 10" who had served a jail sentence for contempt of the HCUA in October of 1947, [redacted] resulted in MALTZ being exposed as a Communist and subsequently resulted in MALTZ having trouble securing employment, at least openly, in the motion picture industry. [redacted] FRANK SINATRA is a [redacted] had never had any trouble with [redacted], but is merely mentioning this situation as a possibility to justify the claims that [redacted]

[redacted] mentioned that [redacted] influenced in his decision [redacted] DOUGLAS actor and producer, [redacted] KIRK DOUGLAS recently announced that HOWARD FAST, one of the "Hollywood 10," was to receive credit for screen work on a film recently produced by DOUGLAS entitled "Spartacus", production of which is just being completed at Universal Studios in Hollywood. [redacted] stated that it would be interesting to see just what treatment TRUMBO had given the screen story, which was taken from the novel by the same name and which had been written by HOWARD FAST.

[redacted] continued that, in his opinion, the film "Spartacus" would undoubtedly contain Communist propaganda by very nature of the subject matter. [redacted] said that he had read the novel "Spartacus" which was more of a "chopped up story" and concerned a gladiator school in Rome during the days of the Roman Empire and the abasement of the gladiators who had been brought to Rome from all over the world. The gladiators, who were being driven to crucifixion, revolted. The general theme is "all for the revolution," the gladiators were presented as the underdogs and the Roman Empire as the capitalists.

[redacted] pointed out that most Americans are unaware of the implications of the name "Spartacus" but that it is a historical fact that following the end of World War I the Communist movement got under way in Germany under the title of the Spartacus Party and that to this day in Germany and central Europe that the term Spartacus is synonymous with the Communist movement. [redacted] stated that of his own personal knowledge, he knew that this connotation was given to the word Spartacus in Western Germany [redacted] mentioned that the Webster's Dictionary refered to the Spartacus Party as a party organized in Germany in 1918 along extreme socialistic lines.

[redacted] stated that HERBERT LUFT, who writes a movie column for the B'nai B'rith Messenger in Los Angeles, had mentioned the film under production by KIRK DOUGLAS entitled "Spartacus" and had given a summary of the significance that this film would have in Europe due to the fact of the political significance which Central European attach to the Spartacus Party. LUFT, according to [redacted] was at one time confined to a German Jewish concentration camp during World War II and while his article regarding "Spartacus" outlined the "Jewish point of view" it more or less substantiated the opinion expressed by [redacted] regarding the possible political implications of the proposed film Spartacus.

b7D

[redacted] stated that [redacted] had never heard anything derogatory concerning [redacted] either from a moral or loyalty standpoint.

[redacted] said that he was furnishing the above information to the FBI as a matter of general knowledge to indicate the trend in Hollywood of the open acceptance of persons with known Communist backgrounds. He stated that the actors and writers strike currently in effect in the motion picture industry was having quite demoralizing effects on some of the major studios, particularly 20th Century Fox and MGM, on an international basis and they were forced to cut their staffs in England and other foreign offices. He mentioned also that the major motion picture studios [redacted] probably never recover, in his opinion, from the strike and would become large rental studios leasing to independent producers. Furthermore, the fact that practically all motion pictures and television productions are now made by many independent producers would make it much easier for Communists, Communist sympathizers or other undesirable persons to infiltrate the industry as there would not be any strong unity against such infiltration as the major motion picture studios have taken together in the past.

American Legion 'Condemns' Sinatra

Following Frank Sinatra firing Albert Maltz off assignment to script "Execution Of Pvt. Slovik" (an action taken last Thursday), 24th District, American Legion, mailed out Monday to AMPP, Producers Guild and Directors Guild a resolution the veterans' group passed March 28 "condemning" Sinatra for his "unpatriotic, disloyal and repulsive action in employing Maltz."

Legion scored Maltz for "pronounced Communist activities . . . detrimental to the best interests of this nation . . ."

GOOD MORNING: First one to come to Frank Sinatra's "morale defense" following the post-SHARE party beef is one of his so-called "foes" — John Wayne, who, first of all, claims he had no beef at all with the Thin One. "How could I pick on a guy that size?" he laughs, then adds, "I think he does a lot of good — he's just a little misguided" . . . Wayne admits being sore about Sinatra's hiring Albert Maltz, but when Sinatra asked his opinion on the matter Wayne decided to discuss it "in private".

Sinatra Planning 'At-Law' Remake

Frank Sinatra has opened negotiations for screen rights to "Counsellor-At-Law," Elmer Rice play which was filmed by Universal in 1933 as a John Barrymore starrer. If deal jells, it will mark Sinatra's second major story buy in the past month and would join "Time Of Departure" on his Essex Productions sked.

Sinatra would essay the Barrymore role of "George Simon" and likely would film "Counsellor" early next year. Actor next goes into "The Devil At Four O'Clock" for Fred Kohlmar and Mervyn LeRoy at Columbia.

"He is a front for the Big Mob and the principle contact with JORGE PASQUAL, the Mexican 'Sportsman' who represents the Big Mob in Mexico and in large Mexican undertakings. He was 'discovered' by WILLIE MORETTI after pressure from FRANK COSTELLO and 'LUCKY' LUCIANO when the latter was in Cuba. The FISCHETTI boys, Chicago, own a 'piece' of SINATRA. TOMMY DORSEY, who held SINATRA's contract which had five years to run was offered $75,000 by SINATRA to release him. DORSEY would not do it and the Mob 'fingered' DORSEY who readily surrendered SINATRA's contract. SINATRA is only one of many in the entertainment world who knowingly collaborates with the Big Mob. Incidentally, the 'owners' of SINATRA are to hav a meeting in Las Vegas, Nevada, starting Sunday, August 19, 1951. .

RACKETS ACTIVITIES LOS ANGELES DIVISION which reads in part:

"On November 5, 1954, a raid was made on an apartment located at the intersection of Waring Avenue and Kilkea Drive in Hollywood. The raiders apparently broke into the wrong apartment, being confused by separate entrances to the three apartments in the building at that address, and hurriedly made their exit. It developed that this raid was made by Private Detectives BARNEY RUDITSKY and PHILIP IRWIN, accompanied by FRANK SINATRA, JOE DI MAGGIO, HENRY SANICOLA (SINATRA's Manager), and PATSY D'AMORE, owner of the Villa Capri Restaurant in Hollywood. There is a dispute as to the identity of persons who actually entered the 'wrong apartment', but in any event, [redacted] when the raiders in reality were seeking entrance to an upstairs apartment in the same building, which has the address 754 Kilkea Drive and was occupied at the time b[redacted] a friend of Miss MARILYN MONROE, who was about to obtain a divorce from JOE DI MAGGIO, the former New York Yankee baseball player."

In connection with the Senate Committee investigation on Collection Agencies which conducted hearings in early March, 1957, FRANK SINATRA claimed that he did not even appear on the scene of the raid, although he was identified by other persons in the area as having been present with DI MAGGIO and the others. DI MAGGIO has evaded subpoena and, thus, has not testified, although he has given an affidavit to support the story of SINATRA.

There were indications that because of the failure of the raid, DI MAGGIO refused to pay the detective bill, so RUDITSKY made a demand upon SINATRA for the detective fee of several hundred dollars, and SINATRA paid it, claiming he later was reimbursed by DI MAGGIO.

This page is entitled "Friend of Hoodlums Mistaken for One" and is quoted as follows:

"FRANK SINATRA, the pint-size actor, got a chance in real life last night to be his angry best. The scenario went something like this:

"SINATRA said he was driving along Sunset Blvd. about 10:30 p.m. and got burned up because DONALD KYKENDAHL, 21, of 1446½ Butler Ave., West Los Angeles, allegedly cut him off a couple of times. With KYKENDAHL in the car was BEVERLY STUNDEN, 27, of 1445 12th St., Santa Monica.

"KYKENDAHL claimed a car behind his on Sunset Blvd. flashed its bright lights in his rear-view mirror. He didn't remember cutting anybody off in traffic. As the cars neared a stop light in Beverly Hills a third car pulled out from behind the car following KYKENDAHL, and cut sharply in front of KYKENDAHL.

"He and his young lady companion figured they were being set up for a robbery. FRANK SINATRA got out of his sports car to the rear of KYKENDAHL, and at that point the boy and his girl friend were sure "they would be victims.

"KYKENDAHL eased his car forward, bumped the car in front, then backed up sharply and took off at high speed.

"SINATRA jumped back into his high-powered sports car and gave chase, calling for help over his mobile radio-telephone. At a 60 mph clip KYKENDAHL headed straight for the West Los Angeles Police Station with SINATRA right behind him.

"As the two cars screeched to a halt in front of the station, Miss STUNDEN leaned on the horn button and the police came tumbling out into the street.

"The police sergeant looked like a man watching a tennis match as he listened to both sides of the story. After the story unfolded, SINATRA said he would just as soon forget the whole thing, and drove off.

"KYKENDAHL was released without a citation and things went back to normal at the police station."

This page is entitled "On FRANK SINATRA" and is quoted as follows:

"The announcement that FRANK SINATRA has hired ALBERT MALTZ to write a picture, on Monday became subject of the 'Herald Express' lead editorial which takes a dim view of both MALTZ with his Communist Party affiliations and SINATRA. About the latter, the editor wrote in part, 'Frank Sinatra has moved far from the days when he was a punk preliminary boxer on the New Jersey waterfront. Maybe he has moved too far for his own good.'

"This SINATRA-MALTZ combination has evoked more than passing interest in certain other circles, including the Moral Re-armament organization which has just recently launched a campaign in Hollywood. SINATRA, because of his reputation, is one of those of particular interest to this organization, according to JACK CURRY who, as an aside mentioned a revealing incident about this actor.

"According to CURRY, while SINATRA was performing in Las Vegas recently, two entertainers in the show kept 'up-staging' him. SINATRA warned them, but they took no heed. A couple of nights later each was met at the stage door as he left the show, and each was severely beaten without explanation by the goons who met them. Robbery was not the motive, and others in the act, including CURRY's informant, are convinced that the beatings were arranged by SINATRA."

Sinatra's 'Inference' Unfair That Legion Of Decency OK's Maltz Deal

New York, April 5. — The Roman Catholic Legion of Decency and Frank Sinatra do not necessarily "stand together," despite all those Sinatra-sponsored trade ads anent the hiring of Albert Maltz. The Legion is more than a little upset by Sinatra's use in his defense of the Maltz deal, of a statement to the effect that the Legion evaluates films on the basis of "the art, not the artist."

J. D. Nicola, assistant editor of Information, Catholic monthly published here by the Paulist Fathers, and author of the original article which contained the much-quoted quote, yesterday issued a press statement "strongly" objecting to

Sinatra's interpretation of his interpretation of the Legion's stand.

"Sinatra has placed my words in new context, from which can be drawn an inference which is unwarranted," said Nicola, "namely: that the Legion of Decency finds nothing improper in his hiring of Maltz.

No Official Spokesman

"By referring to me as 'J. D. Nicola of the Catholic Legion of Decency,' Sinatra creates the erroneous impression I am an official spokesman for the Legion. Rather, I am of Information magazine; a Catholic journalist who happens to be lay member of the Legion's board of consultors. My writings may be accepted as informed, but not official. Sinatra's raising of this journalist's mere observation to the level of official pronouncement could result in some misleading conclusions.

"In his statement, Sinatra cites my explanation of a Legion modus operandi as something with which he is 'in complete accord,' as if the Legion of Decency and Frank Sinatra were united against those who oppose his hiring of Maltz."

Do Not 'Stand Together'

"This 'we stand together' inference is absurd. Sinatra has attempted to draw a parallel where none exists. His hiring of the blacklisted writer cannot be adequately defended by his espousal of the 'art, not the artist' theory. This is so because Sinatra, as a producer, has a broader responsibility than does the Legion of Decency . . .

"The motion picture producer must make other considerations. Offering a professional Communist — if Maltz is one — an opportunity to work in an influential mass medium is not exactly paralleled to offering a known adulteress an opportunity to portray a heroine nun on screen. The true Communist will make every effort to use the medium for Communistic ends, the more subtly the better . . . Sinatra, in using my statement as he did, has made it possible to infer that the Catholic Legion of Decency is not opposed to Hollywood employment of such political undesirables. Such inference would be unfair . . . The Legion does not oppose the activity of those fighting the Hollywood employment of Communists. It would oppose anyone attempting to infer that it does."

Legion Eyes 'Suspects'

The Legion obviously plans to take a very close look at all films on which "suspect" talent worked. What irritated the Catholic group most about the Sinatra ads was the fact that it implied the Legion had taken a stand on what is a political issue, which is outside its jurisdiction. It may not be unlikely, that if this hiring-of-blacklisted-talent goes much further, some other department of the church might take a stand, firmly opposing practice. This could come on a national level or on diocesan level.

STATEMENT

In view of the reaction of my family, my friends and the American public, I have instructed my attorneys to make a settlement with Albert Maltz and to inform him that he will not write the screenplay for "The Execution of Private Slovik."

I had thought the major consideration was whether or not the resulting script would be in the best interests of the United States. Since my conversations with Mr. Maltz had indicated that he had an affirmative, pro-American approach to the story, and since I felt fully capable as producer of enforcing such standards, I have defended my hiring of Mr. Maltz.

But the American public has indicated it feels the morality of hiring Albert Maltz is the more crucial matter, and I will accept this majority opinion.

"On the society pages of the 'Los Angeles Mirror News' today there appears an article on Hollywood society. This features particularly 'Frank Sinatra's Rat Pack,' reportedly the best publicized of all social cliques in Hollywood.

"The piece, written by LEE BELSER, says that even so, SINATRA's crowd 'is not so chi-chi or so smart or even so nonconforming as it once was.'

"It is shown that SINATRA inherited the rat pack from the late HUMPHREY BOGART, 'the lord high commissioner of the original clan.'

"BELSER goes on to state, 'Numbered among its exhaulted initiates are Dean Martin, Sammy Davis, Jr., Shirley MacLaine, Judy Garland and the Peter Lawfords. All of them are unique in the extreme and are not to be confused with ordinary mortals.

"'Their stock in trade is total lack of reverence for the prosaic.'

"SINATRA's recent hiring and firing of ALBERT MALTZ (unfriendly witness) to write a screen play is commented upon with the remark, 'The recanting won't hurt him in the eyes of his clan because Frank is Always Right.'

"SINATRA is described as an elegant host, and Mrs. FRANCES GOLDWYN is quoted as saying, 'He behaves in his home like nothing I have ever seen...He acts like a grand duke lavishing his favors on his guests. He is also attentive and he's a meticulous housekeeper.'
