Dear Ms. Wojcicki:

On June 8, 2010, your company announced that it had incorrectly processed a number of customer DNA samples. Press reports suggest that 23andMe's incorrect processing resulted in several customers receiving DNA results belonging to other persons.

We are writing to learn more about this incident. In order to assist the Committee with its investigation, we ask that you provide the following documents by June 28, 2010:

1. All internal and external communications relating to the collection, processing, and analysis of DNA samples affected by incorrect processing, including all communications with third-party laboratories and all instructional documents detailing appropriate handling of DNA samples;
2. All internal company policies, directives, and written guidance materials relating to the company's handling of errors in the collection, processing, and analysis of DNA samples; and
3. All documents relating to previous instances in which 23AndMe customers received DNA results belonging to other persons.
