- 2.3 The Superintendent of the House Office Buildings under the Architect of the Capitol (AOC) (Superintendent) is responsible for the removal of trash and recyclable materials placed within a hallway, exit access, exit or stairwell. In addition, the Superintendent is responsible for the administration of the hallway flag display policy and, at the direction of the Fire Marshal, the construction of fire resistant temporary enclosures (which shall include construction barriers) around items authorized to be stored in a hallway or exit access on an Extended Temporary and Long-Term Storage basis.

1.1 SYSTEM(S) DESCRIPTION AND REQUIREMENTS

- A. The following is a basic system(s) description
- B. The banquet area is a 3-way divisible room. Each division will be used as a standalone unit or combined with one or both of the other rooms. The room configuration will be monitored and adjusted via the control system inherent to the rooms. The AV system will support a wide range of usages and room configurations for maximum flexibility. Each room will have one or more wall plates and one or more floor boxes for audio and video inputs and outputs. Routing and room control will be administered either from a wall mounted touch panel in each room division or an administrative touch panel in the main system rack.
- C. The transport protocol for the audio system communications will be digital Cobranet. The analog signals will be converted to digital as they enter the system and will remain digital all the way to the speaker amplifiers. The audio digital signal processor (DSP) will control audio routing and signal processing. The speaker system is a constant voltage speaker system. A 3D EASE model was developed and used to analyze speaker coverages to specific audience areas. Additionally, the room was evaluated for proper acoustics and speaker interaction with the room treatments and finishes. The speaker lines are zoned for room flexibility. Microphone inputs will be located in a floor box for lectern and head table configurations; additional microphones will be located in a wall plate at the front of the room. At the rear of each room division, is one wired microphone plate located next to 8 balanced line level outputs for press or recording applications necessary.
- D. At the center of the video system a digital video matrix switcher will provide maximum flexibility allowing any video input to go to any or all of the video displays. Each room division will have at least two input locations (wall and floor box plates) for analog and/or digital video inputs. These video input locations are transmitters that will transcode the video and associated audio for distribution to the displays via the video matrix and will output HDMI video to these displays. Lesser resolutions will be scaled to the native resolution of the room displays for optimal video quality.
- E. The control system will be user friendly. It will control the room division layouts, room lighting, equipment power, source selection, volume control, etc. The control processor will interface with the audio DSP, video matrix and Lutron lighting processor resulting in a cohesive AV system. Basic audio functionality will be controlled from the touch panels; however, low-level control will be initiated from a rack mounted computer with specific software to control Cobranet communications.
- F. Due the complexity and custom protocols of the audio DSP and control programming the AV Contractor will not be allowed to do "in-house" programming. The Contractor shall contract the manufactures for project specific programming quotes.
