Friday Update

We had a busy week in Washington on issues like providing funding for our veterans and their families, maintaining the salary freeze on Congress, discussing solutions for DACA recipients and more. Watch below:

Honoring Our Veterans

Do you know a veteran like those I met this week at the Lincoln Memorial who flew in from Crystal Lake, Plano and other cities around the collar counties? Contact Honor Flight Chicago to honor them with a flight to Washington, D.C. to see the war memorials and other remembrances of their service.

Highlighting Manufacturing Opportunities

Last week we had a fantastic discussion at the McHenry County Workforce Center where we tackled how to support Illinois' manufacturers and small businesses, the skills gap and getting the next generation excited about jobs in manufacturing and other STEM fields. Manufacturers are in need of a pipeline of students and recent graduates who are excited about the field and can gain needed skills and abilities from our local community colleges and on the job.

Become a #STEMScholar!

My office is now accepting applications for my third class of STEM Scholars, the 14th Congressional District youth leadership program encouraging highly-motivated and energetic high school students to become ambassadors in their communities for the possibilities provided by science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

This past year has been a blast with our exceptional class of high school students as we participated in a diverse set of hands-on activities and learning opportunities at local businesses, educational institutions, research facilities and more.

Apply by June 30—click here for more:
