Indiana's licensure data continues to provide evidence that recruitment and retention of our teacher workforce is an ongoing state priority. The following strategies recommended by the Blue Ribbon Commission for the Recruitment and Retention of Excellent Educators and supported by the IDOE address these challenges in collaborative, multi-directional ways:

- Establish a state-funded, ongoing investment in a mentoring system, based on a common set of expectations but that is flexible and locally designed, to support new teacher induction and nurture the reflective practitioner.
- Create, implement, and sustain a robust marketing campaign that leverages all forms of media to promote the education profession.

Recommendations (continued):

- Allow for locally developed compensation models that—
  - a. Include a pay scale that has a professionally competitive base and index, increases regularly on the base and expands opportunities for pay based on career paths, including ongoing learning through advanced degrees and/or additional licensure in education or related content areas.
  - b. Establish and compensate teacher leadership and career ladders that have mentoring opportunities and ongoing advancement, support and recognition of teacher skills and experience.
- Include in the local evaluation system an emphasis on how teachers use data from multiple forms of assessment, including informal, teacher-constructed, and standardized assessments to inform instruction and measure student growth, thus clarifying the purpose of, and reducing the number of, standardized tests.
- Recruit and retain a diverse teacher workforce and candidate pool that includes underrepresented populations.

Recommendations (continued):

- Strengthen partnerships among P-12 schools and institutions of higher education and require significant, extended pre-service clinical experiences prior to licensing.
- Identify and re-establish state funds for job-embedded professional development that improves teachers' and administrators' knowledge and practice.
- Re-envision teacher career pathways and leadership opportunities to encourage, develop, and retain teacher-leaders and provide pathways for promotion so that teachers have the opportunity to advance in ways beyond leaving the classroom for administrative positions.
