Plain Writing Act Compliance Report

Jun 3, 2014

The Plain Writing Act of 2010 requires federal agencies to write all new publications, forms and publicly distributed documents in a “clear, concise, well-organized” manner by October 13, 2011. HUD’s Plain Language efforts started with its public website, which was redesigned in 2014, consistent with Plain Language Guidelines. The launch of HUD’s FaceBook pages and Twitter feeds were also consistent with the guidelines. Other documents, including letters and correspondence to the public; forms and applications for services or information; and hard-copy and electronic information intended for the public will follow or are currently underway.

The following agency communications have been released consistent with the Plain Writing guidelines.

Type of communications of document or posting. List how this is made available to the public	Who is the intended user and approximate number of potential users	What has changed by using Plain Writing
HUD Website www.hud.gov	General public, business partners, media (3.3 million/month)	Website recently redesigned following plain writing guidelines
Social Media (FaceBook, Twitter, Blog)	General public, business partners, media	Continuous updates for concise and easy to understand language

HUD has informed staff of Plain Writing Act’s requirements by:

Posting information on the Plain Writing Act on our Intranet.

Publishing an article on the Plain Writing Act and its requirements in HUD Happenings, the agency weekly newsletter.

Training

HUD will provide or has already provided the following employee trainings on Plain Writing:

Type of Training	Number of employees trained	Date
Webinars	Employees have taken plain language classes through Web Manager University
Training	Employees receive in-person training through HUDLEARN's rigorous plain writing training regiment

Ongoing compliance

HUD will document and report use of plain writing in agency communications by linking to new and revised documents from our plain writing web page.

HUD will establish a clearance process that requires all documents covered by the Act to be reviewed for plain writing before being issued.
