Boone Peeler State Executive Director, South Carolina

Boone Peeler was appointed by the Trump Administration to serve as the state executive director of the South Carolina USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) in November 2017.

Peeler is a fourth generation dairy farmer from Gaffney, South Carolina, where he resides with his wife, Laura, and their two daughters, Savannah Jayne and Beau. He's currently the vice president of Harvey Peeler's Farm, Inc., a beef cattle operation.

His first job was pulling a 14-foot fiberglass cow around South Carolina for his uncle's Lt. Governor campaign. After graduating from Clemson University, Peeler became a partner in an independent insurance agency.

He later went to work for the State of South Carolina as the provider outreach manager with the Department of Health and Human Services. He has also been a member of the Gaffney City Council since 2006 and serves as mayor pro tem.

Peeler has attended Clemson football games since he was a child and is passing down the tradition to his own children. In his spare time, he enjoys running, hunting and fishing.
