

United States
Department of Agriculture

Farm Service Agency

Bryan Scoresby State Executive Director, Alaska

Bryan Scoresby was appointed by the Trump Administration to serve as the state executive director of the Alaska USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) in October 2017.

Born and raised on a small dairy farm in Idaho Falls, Idaho, Scoresby attended Utah State University and graduated with a degree in agricultural education. He also attended Brigham Young University, where he earned a master's degree in agribusiness management.

Scoresby started his career with FSA in 1987 as a county operations trainee in Wyoming. In 1989, he became the county executive director in Lusk, Wyoming, and in 1990, the county executive director in Curtis, Nebraska. He moved to Alaska in 1992, where he served as a district director until he began a 21-year career as a home mortgage consultant.

Scoresby serves on the Mat Su borough Port Authority Commission, and he previously served on the Mat Su energy commission, working to simplify and clarify the energy policy of the Mat Su borough.

Scoresby and his wife, Mary, reside in Palmer. They have five children and seven grandchildren. They raise steers and have a large garden every year. He enjoys hunting, fishing, and serving as a Cub Scout Den Leader in his church and working with the Webelo scouts.