The Hall County Department of Corrections (HCDC) facility was constructed in 2008 and is owned and operated by Hall County, Nebraska. The Director reports to the County Board of Corrections. The facility is located at 110 Public Safety Road and is approximately one mile from downtown Grand Island, Nebraska. The HCDC complex is located across the street from the Law Enforcement Complex which houses Hall County Sheriff's Office and the Grand Island Police Department. The HCDC houses adult male and female detainees of all security levels for

The facility is a single level structure consisting of ten housing units with a combination of dormitories and cells. There are 80,000 square feet within the secure perimeter. Housing areas provide adequate open space. Detainees spend the majority of their time socializing in the dayrooms. Recreation areas are attached to the housing units. Telephones and kiosks are available in the general population dayrooms. The kiosks permit detainees to correspond with family and friends via email; correspond with ICE; file grievances; initiate sick call requests and order commissary.

The inspection team found the atmosphere to be calm with no obvious indicators of high stress levels. The facility was observed to be clean, quiet and orderly. Supervisors and officers exhibited a professional demeanor in both attire and attitude.

Inspectors conducted no less than forty-five interviews with detainees during the inspection. These included the detainee in disciplinary segregation, the three females, males in all classification levels, LEP detainees and no less than ten confidential interviews. The facility Language Line was used to conduct confidential interviews with LEP detainees. The LEP detainees stated that they had no issues communicating with staff and no problems obtaining services. Without exception, detainees stated that they felt safe at the facility. There were no issues raised concerning medical care, food service or access to legal materials. There were multiple complaints regarding the availability of hygiene items (soap, shampoo and toothbrush). This issue was brought to the attention of the ICE liaison sergeant who immediately made arrangements for delivery of these items to the detainees. A memorandum was issued to officers instructing them to provide hygiene kits upon request. The "living atmosphere" in the housing units was observed to be relaxed, with cordial interaction between officers and detainees.

Food service is provided by Aramark. Medical services are provided by Advanced Correctional Healthcare. Dental services are provided by Island View Dental. The facility does not charge co-pays for medical, mental health or dental care.
