U.S. EMBASSY

summary report for active Korean students in the U.S.

You are interested in which schools and geographical regions or states are top choices for Korean students, plus which majors/fields of study, and which institutions have the largest number of Korean students. In addition, you are particularly interested in the transfer in/out rates of popular school pairs, as you are also looking to identify schools of concern.

Also, can SEVP provide statistics on F2 derivatives of F1 students? One of the major issues we see here at Embassy Seoul is Korean parents going to the U.S. claiming to study (typically English as a Second Language, ESL) on an F1 visa, with the sole purpose of dropping their F2 derivative children in public school in the U.S.

standards for contract facilities (i.e. CDFs and IGSA facilities) "would be phased in through new contracts and contract renewals." With respect to existing contracts, what is the estimated date at which the standards would be completely phased in?

According to ICE records (in JICMS), from 2010 to June 2012, there were 138 sexual abuse allegations from detainees. Of those that involved ICE staff or ICE-contracted-staff as the alleged perpetrators, how many allegations resulted in disciplinary action? Of those staff who were disciplined, how many continue to work in ICE detention facilities?

Allegations in small "holding facilities" would be "overseen by the PSA {Prevention of Sexual Abuse} Coordinator through the normal agency chain of command." What is that chain of command?

When detainees who are alleged victims of sexual abuse are taken to outside hospitals or clinics for medical evaluation, are they shackled?
