

CAPITOL VISITOR CENTER

Teacher Advisory Group

Would you like to help the U.S. Capitol Visitor Center shape educational programs and resources?

If you are a current or retired teacher and have an interest in providing input on the educational opportunities offered at the U.S. Capitol, please consider applying to be a volunteer member of the Capitol Visitor Center's new Teacher Advisory Group. Teachers and administrators with elementary, middle and high school experience are needed.

A one-year commitment to the Teacher Advisory Group is required, and representation from across the country is desired. The Teacher Advisory Group will meet in person or via teleconference at least three times a year beginning in the fall of 2014.

Members of the Teacher Advisory Group will:

- Identify relevant educational themes and content consistent with educational standards
- Review the Capitol Visitor Center's educational offerings, such as programs, handouts and electronic resources
- Inform the Capitol Visitor Center's understanding of how to meet the educational needs of students and teachers.

For more information or to apply to volunteer for the Teacher Advisory Group, contact education@visitthecapitol.gov or call 202.593.1868.
