General Comment

I am a retired federal civil servant who has past the age at which I needed to convert my TSP to another investment tool. Fortunately, I have a financial advisor who is accountable to me and my investment success.

I strongly believe all investors deserve disinterested financial advisors - not ones who are interested in lining their own pockets.

Do not delay the scheduled implementation of your rule in the face of overwhelming evidence that it is needed so much by so many who will need to do what I did and who are unprotected from salesmen who are not required to hold their clients interests above and before their own.

I vote in all elections and pay attention to political and policy actions.

Thank you for considering my comment.
