With you through life's journey...

Social Security touches your life, no matter where you are on life's journey. Whether you just had a baby or started planning for retirement, Social Security is there for you and your family, providing vital services and a social safety net for millions.

Today, about 171 million people work and pay Social Security taxes and about 61 million people receive monthly Social Security benefits. With retirement, disability, and survivors benefits, we improve the quality of life for millions throughout life's journey.

We're There Day One

We are with you from day one, when your parents named you and when you named your children—beginning a lifetime of security. Most parents apply for their child's Social Security number at birth, usually through the hospital. When the time comes for your kid's first job, the number is already in place.

A fun bonus of assigning Social Security numbers at birth is that we know the most popular baby names, which we announce each year. On our website, you can find the top baby names for the last 100 years. www.socialsecurity.gov/babynames

We're There When You Get Your First Job

Women have challenging choices to make. Some may spend their entire adulthood in a career or job outside the home. Some may work for a few years, leave the labor force to raise children, and eventually return to work. And some may choose not to work outside the home at all. Whether you work, have worked, or have never worked outside the home, you need to understand how Social Security can help you and your family find financial security.

Employers collect FICA, or Federal Insurance Contributions Act withholdings, and report earnings electronically to us. This is how we track your earnings and is how you earn Social Security retirement, disability, spouses, and survivors coverage for you and your family. A worker earns up to four Social Security credits each year and needs 40 credits, or 10 years of work, to qualify for retirement benefits. It's vital that you work at least 10 years to qualify for Social Security based on your own work record.

Opening a free my Social Security account at www.socialsecurity.gov/myaccount allows you to verify your earnings history and see if you will get Social Security retirement benefits. A secure my Social Security account also lets you estimate future benefits.

We're There When You Get Married

Whether you're celebrating your anniversary or starting a new chapter alone or with a new spouse, a part of that new life may include a new name. If you legally change your name due to marriage, divorce, or any other reason, let us know so you can get an updated Social Security card — and so we can accurately keep track of your earnings. There's no charge for a Social Security card.

We're There to Help if Disability Strikes

Isn't it nice to know that Social Security is here to help even if the unexpected happens? Disability benefits provide modest coverage for severely disabled workers and their dependents, including our wounded warriors.

Visit www.socialsecurity.gov/disabilityfacts/facts.html to learn more.

We're There to Provide Comfort During Difficult Times

The loss of a loved one can be both emotionally and financially difficult. Some widows, widowers, and children may receive survivors benefits to help them cope with the financial loss. The number of credits needed to provide benefits for survivors depends on the worker's age when he or she dies.

Unmarried children who are under age 18 (up to age 19 if attending elementary or secondary school full time) can be eligible to receive Social Security benefits when a parent dies. Visit www.socialsecurity.gov/planners/survivors to learn more.

We Wouldn't Miss Your Retirement Party

When most people think of Social Security, they think of retirement benefits — with good reason. We have you covered through your lifetime. Knowing you will probably be entitled to a portion of your spouse's retirement benefits if they pass away is an added security.

Under Social Security, lower-wage earners receive a higher percentage benefit than higher-wage earners do. The system returns a greater percentage of pre-retirement earnings to a lower-wage worker than a higher-wage worker. Women who are low-wage workers receive back more benefits in relation to lifetime earnings than do high-wage earners.

Visit www.socialsecurity.gov/myaccount to sign-in or create a my Social Security account to verify your earnings and see an estimate of future benefits throughout your career and into retirement.

Also, visit www.socialsecurity.gov/estimator to use Social Security's Retirement Estimator to see what your benefits could be based on when you retire and if your income changes.

We are with those who need a helping hand...

The Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program is a different program that provides income support to disabled children, people age 65 or older, blind, or disabled who have low income and resources. U.S. Treasury general funds, not the Social Security trust funds, pay for SSI.

And we will be there for years to come...

Social Security has two trust funds — Old-Age and Survivors Insurance (OASI) and Disability Insurance (DI). The OASI and DI Trust Funds have reached the brink of depletion of asset reserves in the past. However, in 1977 and 1983, Congress made substantial changes to the program that resulted in the $2.89 trillion that exists today.

The two Social Security trust funds will be able to pay all benefits in full and on time until 2034. Even if legislative changes are not made before 2034, we'll still be able to pay 79 percent of each benefit due. Social Security has always changed to meet the needs of the people we serve and will continue to help support you and your family. Whether you are about to retire, become a full time grandparent, or start a new chapter, Social Security can help you secure today and tomorrow.

To learn more about Social Security and our programs and services, go to www.socialsecurity.gov, call 1-800-772-1213, or visit your local field office.