

Bhavani Raveendran is a partner at Romanucci Blandin LLC in Chicago, where she concentrates her practice on civil rights litigation under the Civil Rights Act and state court causes of action against governmental employers. Bhavani received her law degree from American University's Washington College of Law and her degree in political science from Case Western Reserve University. During her tenure working in civil rights litigation, she has represented individuals and families in cases regarding the deprivation of their constitutional rights, severe injury at the hands of state actors, or the loss of a loved one before juries and appellate courts, including the 7th Circuit. Bhavani has been instrumental in the representation of her clients in their civil suits, including the families of George Floyd, Botham Jean [pronounced John], and Javier Ambler. Bhavani currently serves as Chair of the American Association of Justice's Police Misconduct Litigation Group, Vice-Chair of the Illinois State Bar Association's Human and Civil Rights Section Council, and co-chair of the Illinois Trial Lawyers Association Diversity and Inclusion Committee.
