Aloha ~ From MarCent

Story by Gunnery Sgt. Shannon Arledge

The Marines of Marine Forces Central Command, Bahrain, welcomed a special guest March 5.

Charles Gibson, co-anchor of ABC News Good Morning America and Prime Time, took the opportunity to sit down with

Lt. Gen. Earl B. Hailston, commanding general of Marine Forces Central Command. During a 30-minute interview, Gibson and Lt. Gen. Hailston talked about past military conflicts, the general's 35-year Marine Corps career, and the future of military forces in the Persian Gulf.

Lt. Gen. Hailston said his forces are ready for any conflict, in the Persian Gulf or anywhere his Marines are called. He wouldn't speculate on any upcoming battles, but would say today's Marines are prepared.

The general added that if the United States and coalition forces are called on by the president, "We will win."

Following the interview, Gibson was treated to a tour of the Command Operations Center and shook hands with Marines anxious to meet him.

Gibson took the opportunity to sit down with the general during a 30-minute interview. Gibson discussed the general's combat history, his 35-year Marine Corps career, and the possibility of any future conflicts. Following the 30-minute interview Hailston provided the news anchor a tour of the Command Operations Center and the Marine Forces Central Command's headquarters.

The broadcast aired at 7 a.m., ST, March 5, with live shots from Bahrain.

Greetings From Our Commanding Officers

Hello from MARCENT!

I'm sure many of you are watching the news reports on Fox News and CNN. All I can tell you is your Marines and Sailors are doing great things here at MARCENT! They are able to do this great work because of you and the support you provide. Your Marines and Sailors are the embodiment of the American spirit of courage and dedication in action. They are forward deployed to show that free and democratic nations will not allow terrorists to control their lives.

Col William S Febuary,

Your courage and support emboldens them to maintain their edge. General Krulak once said: Success in life, like in combat, has always demanded a depth of character. Those who can reach deep inside themselves and draw upon an inner strength, fortified by strong values, always carry the day against those of lesser character. Moral cowards never win in war. . .moral cowards never win in life.

I can tell you there are no cowards among this group. They are demonstrating the courage to face up to the daily challenges of being deployed away from home. They are fortified by the strength of family. They will draw on your courage to help them overcome the challenges they may face.

I can only thank you for being that source of strength and courage. They are doing the hard job that some nations of the world do not have the moral courage to do. Regardless of the noise and confusion, they have the courage to hold the nation's ideals above self. It's awe-inspiring!

With all best wishes,
Col W.S. Febuary

"They are fortified by the strength of family. They will draw on your courage to help them overcome the challenges they may face."

The first quarter of the year has been challenging for all of us with so many of the MARFORPAC personnel deployed to MARCENT. The use of E-mail and old-fashioned letter writing provides a standard method of staying in touch with those deployed. We are also fortunate to be able to tap into the modern technology of the G-6, which provides a VideoTele Conference (VTC) link that allows us voice and video from both ends. On the evening of February 7, we had 23 families at Camp Smith connect with their deployed members in Bahrain. There are many hours of preparation to make these VTCs happen. I would like to personally thank everyone who played a part in this flawless evolution from both ends of the VTC: the chaplains, Key Volunteers, G-6, company personnel, and our civilian techs. I'm confident that the next VTC will have even more participants.

Col Bruce Grathwohl
HQSVCBn CO (Rear)

Coming off the success of our November field meet, Headquarters and Service Battalion and the Key Volunteers are planning a spring family picnic at Bordelon Field on Friday, April 11th, 2003. (Details on front page)

Today's environment, whether deployed or at home, places us all in many situations which require a measure of courage each day. Courage is by far one of the most commonly misunderstood character traits a human being can possess. Often, people see the word "courage" as meaning "totally without fear" as depicted by the TV Crocodile Hunter. The dictionary defines courage as bravery, but originates from the Latin word "cor" which means "heart." Although we know the Wizard of Oz gave the Cowardly Lion his courage, courage cannot be granted or purchased. Rather than enabling one to be fearless or brave, courage empowers us to stand up to the challenges we face each day with the conviction and determination to succeed. Some famous people have thoughts on courage. Babe Ruth—"Never let the fear of striking out get in your way." Oprah Winfrey—"Real courage is being afraid and doing it anyway." And Helen Keller—"Alone we can do so little; together we can do so much." In the end, we demonstrate courage by our deeds. I would like to challenge all who don't belong to the KV network to dismiss their fears and have the courage to join a group that provides MARFORPAC with total readiness and the network to overcome daily challenges.

Chaplain's Corner

If you were to ask the Lion in the Wizard of Oz what was the most important thing in the world to him, we all know what the answer would be: "courage." And if you were to ask ten different people what "courage" means to them, you would probably get ten different answers. For example, consider some of these great quotes about "courage" from some very thoughtful and well "life-traveled" people:

Chaplain Jeffrey Rhodes

George Washington in his Address to the Continental Army in 1776 before the Battle of Long Island said this: "The fate of unborn millions will now depend, under God, on the 'courage' and conduct of this army." Eleanor Roosevelt in her book You Learn by Living said, "You gain strength, 'courage' and confidence by every experience in which you really stop to look fear in the face." John F. Kennedy in his Pulitzer Prize winning book, Profiles in Courage, wrote this: "For without belittling the 'courage' with which men have died, we should not forget those of courage with which men have lived. . . ."

The Lion in the Wizard of Oz, George Washington, Eleanor Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy--all of these larger than life figures have used "courage" to define something that is of the soul, of the spirit, of the definition of the heart of all of us in humankind. It is that which causes us to, in the case of the Lion, be fully human!

It is that which causes us, as how Washington meant it used, to be brave. It is that part of us, as Eleanor Roosevelt conveyed, that doesn't show up in X-rays that we call "guts." It is that quality that Kennedy refers to, that causes us to fully live.

Whatever our definition of courage is; however we use it; whomever we quote of fame who once used the concept that now lives on through the written word in many forms, "courage" makes great sense to us in the context of Jeremiah 41:6 who says, simply, "Be of good courage."

May we all be fully human, and brave, and have guts, as we seek to fully live in whatever time or place or situation we may be!

Eleanor Roosevelt in her book You Learn by Living said, "You gain strength, 'courage' and confidence by every experience in which you really stop to look fear in the face."

Aloha And Mahalo Nui Loa To CWO2 Dana Hudnall

On behalf of all the staff, Marines/Sailors and families of HQSVCBn MFP, I would like to thank CWO2 Dana Hudnall for his dedicated efforts to our Key Volunteer Network.

CWO2 Hudnall graciously volunteered to perform the duties of Family Readiness Officer in July of 2002 when the KVN at HQSVCBn MFP began an overhaul of its KV network. He gave of his time and energy over and above an extremely busy job in the G-2. CWO2 Hudnall had already been very active in a family support role within the G-2 and brought that same enthusiasm to the battalion. His wonderful attitude and tireless efforts did not go unnoticed and he was always available to give the KV's his ideas, time and muscles when needed.

Whether planning a section or battalion function, assisting with a VTC or acting as a liaison between the KVN and the command CWO2 Hudnall was always dependable and a pleasure to work with. Take care, Dana, and stay in touch! Fair winds and following seas to both you and Debbie on your new assignment!

Blessings,

Jessica Mace, HQSVCBn MFP KV Coordinator

A Warm Greeting From Our New Family Readiness Officer

CWO4 Negaard

Hello MARFORPAC Families,

I would like to send a note out to everyone introducing myself. My name is Chief Warrant Officer Lecia A. Negaard and I have just recently been assigned as your new Family Readiness Officer (FRO). I feel very strongly about supporting our families and as the FRO I will remain committed to your needs.

I have been in the military for 22 years and am currently assigned to S-1 HQSVCBN MARFORPAC. I arrived here March 2003. My previous duty assignments were PWST Co C 4thTkBn, Boise, Idaho; 6th EngSptBn Portland, Oregon; Inspector-Instructor Staff Co C 4thTkBn, Boise, Idaho; and MCAS Cherry Point, North Carolina.

I look forward to working with you; please feel free to contact me at:

Deployed Spouses Social Attracts A Wonderful Crowd

Thirteen wonderful door prizes were given away, thanks to donations by local businesses and KV's.

Also the spouse of a deployed Marine, Mrs. Hailston took time out of her busy schedule to join in on the fun.

Spouses enjoyed a wonderful display of food prepared by each of the Key Volunteers.

The guests were many and the food overflowing on February 23rd at the Sunset Lanai. Our first Deployed Spouses Social was a great success, bringing together many spouses of Marines/Sailors who are currently deployed. The attendees had the opportunity to eat, learn and socialize with spouses from other sections at HQSVCBn MFP, while children were treated to a fun afternoon with caregivers provided by the Armed Services YMCA AMR.

Spouses from many of the sections of HQSVBn enjoyed the extensive display of food, MCCS literature, self defense paraphernalia and door prizes. Col Grathwohl, CO HQSVCBn MFP, stopped by to greet the spouses personally and thank them for their special contribution to the Marine Corps at this time. Mrs. Kathleen Coffee gave a presentation on the history of, personal experience with, and use of Karate as a means of self defense. The large number of Marines/Sailors currently deployed places an extra burden on their spouses to make sure they take extra precautions for their own personal safety and that of their families. Ms. Mae Ooka, MFP Family Programs Advisor, discussed the unveiling of the new MCCS OneSource program now available to all Marines and their family members. Finally, the afternoon wrapped up with the drawing of thirteen great door prizes generously donated to the event by Key Volunteers and local businesses.

MCCS To Offer 24 Hour Support Via Toll Free Number

Marine Corps Community Services has added a new weapon to our joint arms approach of providing community and family support programs.

A new program called "MCCS One Source," will provide 24 hour a day, 7 days a week, telephonic and online family information and referral, situational assistance, and links to military and community resources.

"MCCS One Source is similar to employee assistance programs used by many of nation's leading corporations," said Mary Craig, a program specialist with Marine Corps Family Team Building, at Headquarters Marine Corps. "This service is not just for families in a crisis situation. It's for the everyday challenges that life brings. Users can get information on everything from time management and caring for elderly family members, to buying a car, strengthening relationships, or building customized relocation packages. Online users can create their own personnel account and receive regular newsletters on topics of interest. All products and materials, both standard and customized, are pre-paid by the Marine Corps," she added.

MCCS One Source is available to Active Duty and Reserve Marines and their family members. The service is applicable to married, single, and those with or without children.

The goal of MCCS One Source is to reinforce existing MCCS support systems for geographically dispersed populations, extend the hours of service for all populations, and standardize the quality of service and information. Currently, MCCS information and referral services are spread across numerous programs and facilities and are typically available on installation approximately 50 hours a week. Marines and families often have to travel to the facility or special event to get information. This can be very difficult for reserve and recruiter communities who are usually assigned away from military installations.

"An important aspect of the service is that 94% of calls are answered within 20 seconds by a real person. You simply dial the 1-800 number and MCCS One Source connects you with a consultant best suited to answer your particular concern or offer the support you need," she added. "We also have a translation service for over 140 languages as well as assistance for the hearing impaired."

There are multiple ways to access the service including toll free CONUS (800-433-6868) and OCONUS (800-237-42374) phone access, and via "MCCS One Source Online" at www.mccsonesource.com. Online users will have access to an award-winning Web site with a comprehensive array of free articles, booklets, audio recordings, and other resources to help get the answers you want, in the format you want, sent to you the way you want it, via email, fax, or mail. The website is also Section 508 compliant for those with special needs and has a Spanish language version.

April Is The Month Of The Military Child

Ever been to 17 different countries, attended 13 different schools, moved 7 times and seen some of the greatest things in the world all before you were 18? April is the month of the military child, and establishments throughout the military community will be having special events.

On April 1st and 8th you can bring the kids to the Hale Koa for the "Magic in Paradise" show. Children under 12 receive discounted pricing, goodie bags, door prizes and their family receives a free photo. Ticket price includes all you can eat buffet, show and gratuity. Call the Activities Desk at #955-0555 to make reservations.

April 19th the MCBH Exchange located at Mokapu Mall will host "Art in the Park" and an Easter Egg hunt from 9:30-11:30. Art in the Park will feature a variety of hands-on booths for the children to make petroglyphs, stamp books and musical instruments to name a few. This is a free event to military families. Please call Children Youth and Teen Programs at #257-7430 for more information.

Aloha! From Your KV Advisor

John F. Kennedy once said: To be courageous requires no exceptional qualifications, no magic formula, no special combination of time, place and circumstance. It is an opportunity that sooner or later is presented to us all.

As we go to print on this quarter's newsletter, many of our Marines and sailors are poised to go to war. By the time you receive this issue, much action may have already taken place, and each of us will individually assess the impact of that action to our own lives. But I believe that more than ever, this is the opportunity that we as members of the military family have to exhibit and embrace the individual and collective courage that is so integral to the success of our Marines and sailors at home and deployed in harm's way. Acts of courage are as individual as you are. Maybe it's tackling the lawn mower or replacing that blown fuse; maybe it's organizing a fundraiser or taking on a physical challenge for a good cause; maybe it's reaching outside of yourself and taking a hand outstretched to you. Whatever your definition, in the face of adversity military spouses have historically rallied to master our fears and provide a safe haven for our families.

Mrs. Mary Forde-February

I've taken the liberty to provide an excerpt of one commander's assessment of the unique character of the military spouse, received during the Commanders' Course. I believe it is a fitting tribute.

Please take care of yourselves and know you are in our thoughts and prayers.....

Mary Forde-February

Over the years, I've talked a lot about military spouses...how special they are and the price they pay for freedom, too. The funny thing about it is most military spouses don't consider themselves different from other spouses. They do what they have to do, bound together not by blood or merely friendship, but with a shared spirit whose origin is in the very essence of what love truly is. Is there truly a difference? I think there is. You have to decide for yourself.

- Other spouses get married and look forward to building equity in a home and putting down family roots. Military spouses get married and know they'll live in base housing or rent, and their roots must be short so they can be transplanted frequently.
- Other spouses say good-bye to their spouse for a business trip and know they won't see them for a week. They are lonely, but can survive. Military spouses say good-bye to their deploying spouse and know they won't see them for months, or maybe even a year. They are lonely, but will survive....
- Other spouses can count on spouse participation in special events...birthdays, anniversaries, concerts, football games, graduation, and even the birth of a child. Military spouses only count on each other; because they realize that the Flag has to come first if freedom is to survive. It has to be that way.
- Other spouses put up yellow ribbons when the troops are imperiled across the globe and take them down when the troops come home. Military spouses wear yellow ribbons around their hearts and they never go away.
- Other spouses are touched by the television program showing an elderly lady putting a card down in front of a long, black wall that has names on it. The card simply says "Happy Birthday, Sweetheart. You would have been sixty today." A military spouse is the lady with the card. And the wall is the Vietnam Memorial.

I would never say military spouses are better or worse than other spouses are. But I will say there is a difference. And I will say that our country asks more of military spouses than is asked of other spouses. And I will say, without hesitation, that military spouses pay just as high a price for freedom as do their uniformed husbands or wives. Perhaps the price they pay is even higher. Dying in service to our country isn't near as hard as loving someone who has died in service to our country, and having to live without them. God bless our military spouses for all they freely give. And God bless America.

“Whatever your definition (of courage), in the face of adversity military spouses have historically rallied to master our fears and provide a safe haven for our families.”

L.I.N.K.S. provides a positive environment for spouses to learn to manage the demands of Marine Corps life and to work together as a team in balancing family needs as well as Marine Corps' expectations.
