OBSERVING MILITARY CUSTOMS & TRADITIONS

The U.S. Military is rich in military customs and traditions, many of which are observed on military installations. Saluting the "Colors" refers to paying tribute to the United States Flag. There are two daily ceremonies in which uniformed service personnel will salute the colors (national flag) and in which civilians, and others on base, are expected to show their respect. The first ceremony is at 8:00 am, and involves the raising of the national flag while the national anthem is playing. The second is at "Sunset", and consists of lowering the national flag while "Retreat or the National Anthem" is played. Military personnel, if outdoors during either of these ceremonies, must stop what they are doing, face the flag or the direction in which colors are being held, come to the position of attention and render a hand salute. The salute is held until the last note of the music is played. Dependents and civilians should face in the direction where colors are being held and stand at attention (placing right hand over their heart is optional). Talking during colors or retreat is forbidden for military personnel, and considered disrespectful if done by non-military personnel.

On Air Force installations (i.e. Bolling) it is customary to stop your vehicle, get out, come to the position of attention, and render a hand salute if colors or retreat is sounded. On Naval installations you must stop your vehicle and sit at attention until the last note of the music is sounded; then you may proceed. If you are in doubt as to sit at attention or exit your vehicle, it is better to be formal than disrespectful. Therefore, it is recommended that you exit your vehicle, face in the direction where colors are being held, come to the position of attention and render a hand salute. Whether you are driving your vehicle or walking through a military installation, you should never dash under cover to avoid paying respect to the flag. (Taken from Military Protocol Uniform Services Customs and Traditions)

Speed Limits and Security:

Please observe all posted speed limits while on Anacostia Annex and Bolling AFB.

Cars may be subject to random searches despite appropriate decals. Please be patient and cooperate with security personnel if you are subject to a random search.

Force Protection Conditions (FPCON):

Force Protection Conditions (FPCON) are observed on military installations and represent the risk of a terrorist attack. Agency specific protective measures are taken at each force protection level. Please be aware of the force protection \ condition and the protective measures associated with each condition. The force protection conditions are scaled from lowest to highest:

FPCON NORMAL- applies when there is no discernible terrorist activity. Requires a routine security posture.

FPCON ALPHA- applies when there is a general threat of possible threat activity against personnel and/or installations, the nature and extent of which is unpredictable.

FPCON BRAVO- applies when an increased or more predictable threat exists.

FPCON CHARLIE- applies when an incident occurs or intelligence indicates some form of threat action against personnel and/or facilities is imminent.

FPCON DELTA- implementation applies in the immediate area where a threat attack has occurs or when intelligence indicates terrorist action against a specific location is likely.

For further detailed information on these conditions please refer to http://www.brussels.army.mil/force\_protection\_condition.htm
