Mr. William Kennard
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission
1919 M Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20554

Dear Chairman Kennard:

At the request of Spanish Broadcasting Systems, BIA has conducted an analysis of the performance of Hispanic and Urban radio stations and at their request we are providing you with a courtesy copy. In particular, this study focuses on the Top 50 radio markets and on the number of such stations, listening to these stations, revenues generated by these stations and the resulting power ratios. We have utilized BIA's Media Access Pro software and database to conduct this analysis. Our methodology was to search for all stations that were included in the Spanish or Urban format categories in the Top 50 markets and then to analyze performance based on market size, local commercial listening, revenue shares and power ratios.

As you are aware, BIA is a leading provider of data on the radio industry and one of the premier analytical firms examining trends in the industry. Our research is used by well over one thousand broadcasters and industry executives and we conduct hundreds of consulting engagements in broadcasting each year. In addition to providing research on the industry, we are often asked to conduct custom research studies in which we analyze industry data and report on our interpretations. This is, in fact, what Spanish Broadcasting Systems requested in this engagement.

Based on this analysis, we conclude that although there are an average of almost six Hispanic or Urban stations in each of the Top 50 markets, they are typically lesser performers in terms of revenues and power ratios (the conversion of audience into revenues). In terms of listening, 54 of the 285 selected stations failed to show in the Arbitron ratings during 1997 and the overall median listening share for Hispanic and Urban stations in the Top 50 markets was just 0.9%. Only 26% of the Hispanic or Urban formatted stations garnered more than a 4.0% share of local commercial listening during 1997. The revenue share performance was even lower, with these stations having a median revenue share of 0.6% and only 20% of the stations garnered more than a 4.0% share of market revenues. As expected, the power ratios for such stations was typically less than 100%, meaning that most Hispanic or Urban stations fail to generate a revenue share that equals or exceeds their local commercial share. Based on our data, the median power ratio for Hispanic and Urban stations in the Top 50 markets was 70% (revenues represent a 30% undersell of the local commercial share) and only 19% of these stations had a power ratio greater than 100%.

Mr. William Kennard
July 7, 1998

There are numerous situations to substantiate these findings. Three of the most notable examples occur in the nation's largest markets. KLVE(FM), Heftel Broadcasting's leading Spanish station, is the most listened to station in Los Angeles by a wide margin. Yet, its estimated power ratio was just 62% for 1997 and it ranked 8th in terms of estimated revenues for the year. In New York, Eminis Broadcasting's WQHT(FM) offers an Urban/Rap format and its been the first or second highest rated station over the last couple of years. However, its estimated power ratio was just 70% during 1997 and it ranked just 10th in terms of estimated revenues. Another example is WSKQ(FM), Spanish Broadcasting Systems' leading Spanish station in New York. This station has been one of the top rated stations in New York over the past year, but its estimated power ratio in 1997 was just 72% and its estimated revenues ranked 13th.

Attached you will find a summary of our findings and charts containing the data used in this analysis. The first chart lists all of the stations offering a Hispanic or Urban format and information on each station that we considered relevant for this analysis. The second chart is informational, showing the percentage of Blacks and Spanish-speaking residents in each market.

Bill, I hope you find this study of interest. If you have any specific questions related to this analysis, please do not hesitate to call.

Sincerely,

Thomas J. Buono

Analysis of Hispanic and Urban Formatted Stations in the Top 50 Markets

Number of Stations

There are 600 commercial radio stations offering a Hispanic or Urban based format in the Arbitron-rated markets in the United States. In the Top 50 markets, there are 286 stations offering either one of these formats. This means that there are an average of 5.7 stations/market in the Top 50 markets offering one of these formats. As shown in the following chart, there are 15 or more such stations in five of the larger markets:

| Rank | Market | # ofStations |
|-------------|---------------|-------------------------|
| 11          | Miami         | 19                      |
| 9           | Houston       | 17                      |
| 2           | Los Angeles   | 16                      |
| 6           | Dallas        | 16                      |
| 3           | Chicago       | 15                      |

Listening Share Analysis

In terms of listening to Hispanic or Urban stations in the Top 50 markets, 54 of the 286 stations failed to garner at least a 0.1% share of listening during 1997. These stations have been excluded from our analysis of listening and revenues. The following chart summarizes our calculated local commercial shares for the 232 Hispanic and Urban stations showing in the ratings during 1997:

| LCS      | # ofStations | Pct. |
|-----------------|-------------------------|------|
| under 1%        | 90                      | 39%  |
| 1.0% - 1.9%     | 51                      | 22%  |
| 2.0% - 2.9%     | 18                      | 8%   |
| 3.0% - 3.9%     | 13                      | 5%   |
| 4.0% - 4.9%     | 14                      | 6%   |
| 5.0% or greater | 46                      | 20%  |

This indicates that 90 of these 232 stations (39%) failed to garner at least a 1% share of local commercial listening during 1997. A total of 141 of these stations (61%) garner less than a 2% local commercial share of listening.

Revenue Share Analysis

Of these 232 stations, BIA does not estimate revenues for 34 of these stations. For the most part, these stations garnering minimal shares of listening. The following summarizes our estimated revenue shares for these stations:

| Revenue Share | # of Stations | Pct. |
|----------------------|----------------------|-------------|
| Not estimated        | 34                   | 15%         |
| under 1%             | 86                   | 37%         |
| 1.0% - 1.9%          | 36                   | 16%         |
| 2.0% - 2.9%          | 15                   | 6%          |
| 3.0% - 3.9%          | 14                   | 6%          |
| 4.0% - 4.9%          | 15                   | 6%          |
| 5.0% or greater      | 32                   | 14%         |

By comparing the revenue share data to the local commercial share data, one can observe that these stations seem to have a lower revenue share than audience share. For example, only 32 station garner over a 5% revenues share, but 46 stations had a local commercial share greater than 5%. This implies that the power ratio (a station's ability to convert its share of local commercial listening into revenues) averages less than 100% for these formats.

Power Ratio Analysis

An analysis of the power ratios for these stations is as follows:

| Power Ratio | # of Stations | Pct. |
|--------------------|----------------------|-------------|
| Not estimated      | 34                   | 15%         |
| 1% to 59%          | 52                   | 22%         |
| 60% to 79%         | 52                   | 23%         |
| 80% to 99%         | 50                   | 22%         |
| 100% to 119%       | 15                   | 6%          |
| 120% or greater    | 29                   | 13%         |

As indicated, only 44 (19%) of these stations achieved a revenue share that was equal or larger than their local commercial share. The mean power ratio for these stations was 0.70 for these stations during 1997, implying a 30% average undersell for Hispanic and Urban stations. In general, this data indicates that it has been very difficult for Hispanic and Urban stations to obtain a significant share of revenues, even with acceptable ratings.
