

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Many people were involved in the conception and preparation of this report. Most importantly,

I would like to thank Dan Sheehy, Director of Folk & Traditional Arts, and Tom Bradshaw, Director of Research, at the National Endowment for the Arts for their counsel and guidance throughout the duration of this project. I also extend thanks to Barry Bergey in the Division of Heritage & Preservation and former NEA staff members Norma Cantú and Terry Liu. In particular, Terry Liu's assistance in preparing some of the sidebar material was invaluable. To Bess Lomax Hawes, the former Director of the NEA Folk & Traditional Arts Program whose presence and influence is felt throughout this report, I offer gratitude from all who have worked in the field of folk arts. Members of the Folk & Traditional Arts Study Advisory Committee shared generously their ideas, expertise and collective wisdom in meetings and discussion. Nancy Sweezy and Robert Baron provided crucial editorial assistance and a close, critical reading of the manuscript. Kelly Barsdate, Director of Information Services at the National Assembly of State Arts Agencies, went the extra mile to provide a wealth of data in record time. To Jane Beck, Paddy Bowman, Robert Cogswell, Pat Jasper, Amy Kitchener, Richard March, Michael Moore, Kathleen Mundell, Tom Rankin, Dale Rosengarten, Matt Walters and other friends and colleagues too numerous to mention, I offer thanks for advice, information and stimulating discussion. Finally, I want to thank all those traditional artists and individuals who work on behalf of traditional arts and culture in public agencies and private institutions everywhere. Their daily lives and good deeds remind us that ancestors are never ghosts.
