He further related that as far as the request of [redacted] for $7,500 was concerned, there were two persons, whose names he presently could not remember, operating a restaurant at 41st Street and Broadway, New York City, who could substantiate his story.

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

Director,
Federal Bureau of Investigation,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

There has appeared in LEONARD LYONS' column upon several occasions reference to [REDACTED]

b7C, b7D

LYONS has mentioned in his column that [REDACTED] paid for his passport; that he actually smuggled in property for GRACIE ALLEN and MARY LIVINGSTON rather than GEORGIE BURNS and JACK BENNY. Recently he mentioned that [REDACTED] was involved in connection with the passing of a $10,000.00 U. S. note by an attorney in town.

b7C

United States Attorney John T. Cahill spoke to me about this and said he was very much concerned regarding the information appearing in LYONS' column and wondered where the leak might be. I told Mr. Cahill that only one or two Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation knew of [REDACTED] other than myself and I was certain there had been no leak in the F.B.I.; that we furnished reports to him under Personal and Confidential cover and I did not know who in his office had access to those reports. I did tell Mr. Cahill that I thought that if he wanted to ascertain the source of LYONS' information he should call him down and ask him or else have him appear before the Grand Jury.

RECORDED & INDEXED

At that time Mr. Cahill stated that he did not think that any purpose would be served by interviewing LYONS because he did not believe that he would disclose his source of information; further that he felt that if LYONS were called before the Grand Jury he would still refuse to disclose the source of his information. Mr. Cahill also pointed out that to follow such a procedure might interfere with the pleasant relations now existing between his office and the press.

5/24/39

I informed Assistant Director E. A. Tamm of Mr. Cahill's remarks in connection with this matter and Mr. Tamm later instructed that I tell Mr. Cahill that the matter had been discussed with you and you were of the opinion that it would be a very good idea to have LYONS before the Grand Jury in order to question him concerning his sources of information and further that you were also greatly concerned about the source of information of [REDACTED] who has been found from time to time to be in possession of a good bit of confidential information and that it was your suggestion that at the same time [REDACTED] be questioned as to his sources of information. b7c

I informed Mr. Cahill of the above, telling him that it was your suggestion. At that time Mr. Cahill again stated that he did not feel that any purpose would be served by calling either of the individuals before the Grand Jury for the reason that they would undoubtedly refuse to disclose their sources of information and for the further reason that he felt that it would interfere with the present relationship existing with the representatives of the press.

Gem Smuggler Suing Benny

Albert N. Chapereau, who did a bit of smuggling for Jack Benny, Mary Livingston, George Burns and Gracie Allen back in 1938, now wants the quartet to cough up with the $7,682 he paid in fines, it became known yesterday.

Attorneys for the radio stars announced they'd move for dismissal of suits in Supreme Court at 10 A. M. today. Benny and Burns paid fines of $10,000 and $5,000, respectively, in connection with the smuggling.

In his suit against the Bennys—Jack and Mary—Chapereau seeks $2,131 and interest, charging they asked him to carry diamond and gold clips and a bracelet from France.

Prison Opens for Smuggler

Chaperau Sentence Is Committed

News - 4-12-40

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—The United States Attorney's Office here was advised today that President Roosevelt had commuted to the time already served the five-year sentence imposed last April on Albert N. Chaperau, central figure in a widespread smuggling plot.

Chaperau, a pseudo diplomat, was convicted as the carrier of smuggled goods which wound up in the hands of such notables as Jack Benny and George Burns, the radio comedians, and Mrs. Edgar Lauer, wife of a former New York State Supreme Court justice.

Chaperau's sentence, while originally put at five years, already had been cut by Federal Judge Hulbert, on motion of the prosecution, to two years minus the time served while awaiting trial—which made the actual sentence about 18 months. His unpaid $5,000 fine will remain in judgment against him. Benny paid a $10,000 fine; Burns $8,000. Mrs. Lauer served a 3-month jail term.

U.S. Rewards
Chaperau

Albert N. Chaperau, serving two years in Federal prison for jewel smuggling, today earned his reward for co-operating with the Government in the case involving Jack Benny and George Burns, radio comedians, and Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of former Supreme Court Justice Edgar A. Lauer.

An indictment against his wife, Paula Chaperau, was nolle prossed under authorization of U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill on the plea of Chaperau that Mrs. Chaperau and their 16-year-old daughter were poverty stricken in France and would like to return here.

Burns and Benny were given a suspended sentence and Mrs. Lauer was sentenced to three months in jail.

Cahill Drops Indictment as Reward to Husband for Manton Trial Testimony

The prosecution of Mrs. Pauline Chaperau as a member of a jewelry smuggling syndicate operated by her husband, Albert N. Chaperau, and Mrs. Edgar J. Manton, witness of the former Justice of the Supreme Court, was dropped yesterday when a three-count indictment drawn up against her on Dec. 9, 1939, was nolle prossed in United States District Court.

Joseph J. Delaney, Assistant United States Attorney, filed the government's intention to drop prosecution of Mrs. Chaperau, which was said to be the last legal action taken in the case, which resulted in guilty pleas by Jack Benny and George Burns, screen and radio comedians, as receivers of smuggled goods. Chaperau is serving a two-year term and Mrs. Manton has completed a three-month sentence. Benny and Burns each received a suspended sentence of a year and a day. In addition, Benny was fined $10,000 and Burns $5,000.

The dropping of the indictment, in which Mrs. Chaperau was named as "Paula Gheyskens," was authorized by John T. Cahill, United States Attorney, in consideration of the testimony offered by Chaperau as a government witness in the trial of Martin T. Manton, former senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The act followed the recent policy which Mr. Cahill has advocated on numerous occasions of "rewarding" confessed prisoners for services rendered to the government in its various prosecutions.

Chaperau had made many attempts since he was sentenced on Jan. 10, 1939, for his part in the smuggling conspiracy, either to gain his release or quash the indictment against his wife, so that she and their sixteen-year-old daughter, who are at present in Paris, could come to the United States. Chaperau told authorities that his family was poverty-stricken.

Mrs. Chaperau's part in the operations of the jewelry smugglers, according to the indictment, revolved around the smuggling into this country of a gold ring, studded with diamonds, valued at $905. The document charged that Mrs. Chaperau brought in the ring at the suggestion of her husband, who posed as a commercial attache of the Nicaraguan government to escape payment of import duties. Besides smuggling the jewelry, Mrs. Chaperau was accused of making false declarations to the customs by stating that the ring was her personal property, whereas it really was intended to be sold to Burns, which was eventually done.

Gentlemen:

[REDACTED]

b7c

[REDACTED] has brought suit against our client alleging that on or about November 9, 1940, it negligently destroyed some of his personal property, contrary to his instructions.

b7c

We have some recollection of a man of a similar name being involved with the Department of Justice, due to violations of the Customs Laws. Our basis for believing that this is the same man is the fact that among the alleged property destroyed there is claimed to have been some correspondence from people of prominence in the theatrical and radio business.

We are interested in obtaining any useful information you may have in your files which will assist us in the defense of our case.

If convenient and agreeable to you, we shall be glad to have our representative confer with your representative in New York City to go over the matter in more detail.

Yours very truly,

Information was received in 1968 that a Czechoslovakian citizen, who had been a member of the Czechoslovakian Communist Party since 1945, was to visit the United States on the cultural exchange program in 1966. He indicated an intention to visit friends in the United States included among whom was John Steinbeck.

The files of the Identification Division were checked and found to contain no additional pertinent data concerning the above individuals.

A copy of this communication has not been sent to the Attorney General.
