Issue Is Raised For First Time In McAfee Rebuttal Report

Issue Is Then Addressed In McAfee Trial Testimony

Ex ante Bargaining

McAfee opinion that JEDEC dislikes intellectual property held by pure-play companies because of hold-up threat; therefore, it would have had more of an incentive to negotiate ex ante or to avoid the intellectual property. Rebuttal Report, ¶ 86-89.

McAfee opinion that where a company is "pure-play," JEDEC would have greater incentive for ex ante bargaining.

Rambus Giving RAND Letter

McAfee opinion that Rambus would not have issued RAND letter because of Rambus's business model.
Rebuttal Report, ¶ 92.

DX234; Tr. 7487-91.

Discussion of why, in McAfee's opinion, Rambus would not have given RAND letter.
