

Mon 5/17/2004

When the spyware and adware people pay for my computer, internet service, software, etc., then they can have access to my computer. This same idea goes for telemarketers and computer spammers. Until then let them keep their programs off my computers. FTC should see that this stops under very heavy penalties (e.g., $1,000 paid to every computer owner they interfered with).

David R. Preininger

NM