I just wanted to voice my concerns over C2 media (a.k.a. lop.com) I am a freelance computer support technician. I get calls on a regular basis from customers inundated with popups, or their computer is slow or just locking up. 9 times out of 10 I find that they have the Lop.com spyware installed on their computer. None of them installed it on purpose...it just "showed up one day". Many have even tried removing it but none have succeeded (even following lop.com's instructions) unless they installed a spyware removal tool.

Please do something about this awful company. I do make money every time I do one of these service calls, but it's Lop.com who should be receiving the bill, not my clients.
