Please consider some means for stopping spyware from intruding on our privacy. It is no different than someone putting a recorder or some other type of bug on our telephones. Except of course, the fact that these spyware programs are causing our computers to crash and other performance problems. Computers and the providers that allow us to go online are expensive. Why should we be victimized by spyware intruding on our personal life and possessions. For the most part, telemarketing phone calls have come to a halt, due to federal regulations. The same can be done with spyware and it's about time it happened. Please give serious consideration to a means of stopping this intrusion once and for all.
