Spyware is a scourge and should not be allowed to permeate an already overburdened world wide web structure. Adware is in the same class with very few exceptions. With many children on the internet and many adults unaware of how to maintain and defend themselves from predatory companies and scam artists, it is imperative that that federal and state governments of our society take steps to enforce regulations on how and when it is permissible to install such programs. Negligence and apathy are rewarded with an increasing problematic state where millions, if not billions, of dollars are being wasted due to the greed and unscrupulous intentions of a relatively few. Please take action now to contain this increasing dangerous and unnecessary burden.

Sincerely,
Tim Borland
