Spyware, the bane of all who browse or download off the Net. It is another insidious way for people to insinuate themselves into our lives and our computers. It must be stopped, myself I use spyware checking and removal programs, I want my computer to stay clean. We already have enough intrutions into our lives as it is, from the government snooping to places on the web that count keystrokes so they can steal your passwords and other private information. It is a never ending battle to keep ourselves somewhat private. it should get better but it's not.
