Dear Sirs,

I am writing from Argentina, but It applies to most of Southamerica.

Here, almost 30% of internet users use cybercafes or some other (public) means to connect to internet.

Since spy AND adware is installed without knowing of the user (pleaaaaaaaaaaaaase, do not get in legalese.....this user does NOT speak even English !!, neither reads....he only clicks -and given the reversed form of making the question...they only click yes)

Result: 30-40% of the users of such countries are "infected" BUT their neither comprend not read the sites where the spy or adware send them !!!

Nice situation ???

If nothing is done about spy and adware, in the future, this people (I repeat, 30 or maybe 40% of users) will gettting slower connections, pop ups, in a word their internet experience will be lousy.... and eventually will ABANDONE INTERNET.

PLEASE DO LIMIT SPYWARE AND ADWARE.....THEIR "ACCEPTING SCREENS" HAS TO BE CLEAR, IN THE SAME LANGUAGE AS THE BROWSER AND EXPRESSING CLEARLY THAT THEY MAY SLOW THE CONNECTION !!!!

Thanks for listening ps: REMEMBER , WE ARE SPEAKING OF 30-40 % OF ALL INTERNET USERS IN UNDERDEVELOPED COUNTRIES !!!!
