I suggest that you guys at pcpitstop develop a program that we can install on our computers that sends huge volumes of information back to the spyware/adware companies crashing thier systems and making any of the information that they get from us useless - if they want info give it to them, make their statistics and trend charts useless to their clients.I know it sounds like I'm asking for a computer virus of some sort but the way I see it they are sending me a legal virus everytime they give me a tracking cookie - I'm sure you guys can come up with something that isn't destructive -just give them what they want -like the old adage says "if you can't beat them - ,join them" - just be nice about it

thanks
