Introduction

When the Air Force was established in 1947, the Army Exceptional Civilian Service Award was adopted and used to recognize civilians who exhibited clearly exceptional performance of duties, exceptional achievements of major significance, great courage, or provided powerful leadership. In 1948, the Secretary of the Air Force established the Air Force Exceptional Civilian Service Award with similar criteria. This was the only civilian Air Force award until approximately 1954.

Since 1948, many awards have been established with the purpose of recognizing civilian personnel for their outstanding accomplishments and achievements. This guide is meant to be used by the Civilian Personnel Flights and supervisors as a reference tool to promote understanding of the program and individual recognition requirements. This booklet does not intend to be all inclusive, nor replace regulatory guidance, but provide information on available recognition that is most frequently used.

The recognition program is designed to improve government operations by motivating and rewarding excellence by members of the workforce. Recognizing outstanding performance and achievement is an essential management responsibility critical to stimulating and sustaining high levels of proficiency and productivity. Historically, whether in honorary or monetary form, recognition has three basic components: individual or group exceptional achievement, individuals who are sensitive to the value of recognition, and observers who acknowledge achievement and the merit of recognition.

Determining Award Eligibility

Monetary and honorary awards should be granted when merited regardless of the employee's grade, level of responsibility, or type of responsibility. It is important that awards be granted for job-related contributions only if the contribution is clearly beyond performance requirements. If the recognition is within job responsibilities, it must be so superior or meritorious that it warrants special recognition. If the award eligibility is too liberal or stringent, it will lead to a lack of employee confidence in the program and management. The following questions may assist in determining award eligibility:

Is the subject of the contribution within the scope of the employee’s work?

Does the employee’s job description cover the subject of the contribution?

Is the employee expected or required to make contributions of the type under consideration?

Is the nature of the contribution such that the employee’s performance would be judged less than satisfactory if this contribution had not been made?

Is the contribution one pertaining to the immediate work area which the employee can put into operation without consulting higher authority?

If the contribution pertains to the employee’s immediate work area, as well as having application elsewhere in the organization, is the employee expected to make contributions that have impact beyond his or her immediate area?

If the answers to the above questions are “no,” the contribution is outside of the employee’s normal job responsibilities and should be considered for monetary or honorary recognition.

If the answers are “yes,” the contribution is within job responsibilities and to receive recognition, a determination must be made that it is so superior that it merits an award.

Was there a great amount of independent thought, or unusual insight, imagination or effort involved?

Will there be substantial impact or benefits derived from the contribution?

If the answer to any of these questions is yes, consider granting monetary or honorary recognition.

Is the contribution of particular importance or significance to the organization?

DATE DUE
Solicited by HQ USAF/DPDFC and due to HQ USAF/DPDFC on the first Friday in December. (Due date subject to change by award sponsor.)
Purpose:
To recognize the contributions and accomplishments of the civilian work force of the Department of Defense in directly supporting the armed forces, whose members are engaged in designated military operations of a peacekeeping or prolonged humanitarian nature. The medal symbolizes the importance the Department of Defense places on the service of its civilian work force to military operations and the value of its contribution in accomplishing the Nation’s objectives.

Eligibility Requirements:

a. General: The eligibility criteria for the AFCSM is aligned as closely as practicable with that of the Armed Forces Service Medal (AFSM). President William J. Clinton established the AFCSM by Executive Order 12985 dated 11 January 1996. The AFCSM may be awarded to civilian employees of the Department of Defense who, after 1 June 1992, to a date to be determined, participate in direct support of a U.S. military operation for which military personnel have been awarded the AFSM.

b. Specific: Employees must be engaged in direct support for 30 consecutive days in the area of eligibility (or for the full period if the operation is for less than 30 days) in a military operation awarded the AFSM or for 60 nonconsecutive days in an operation, provided this support involves the employee entering the area(s) of eligibility.

1. Civilian employee is an individual meeting the definition of “employee” under 5 U.S.C. 2105 and who would be eligible for awards under DoD 1400.25-M, Subchapter 45 1, "Awards,” including employees of nonappropriated activities. Direct hire foreign nationals are eligible to receive the medal.

2. Direct support is defined as services provided to participating military activities or armed forces in a military operation awarded the AFSM, only if the employee actually enters the designated area of eligibility.

3. Areas of eligibility are the same as designated for approved AFSM military operations, i.e., the foreign territory on which military troops have actually landed or are present and specifically deployed for the operation; adjacent water areas in which ships are operating, patrolling, or providing direct support of the operation; adjacent air space above and adjacent to the area in which operations are being conducted. The Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff will determine U.S. military operations that qualify for the AFSM. Military Personnel Flights can provide a current list of military operations for which the AFSM is authorized.

c. Limitations on Awarding the Medal: The medal may be awarded only to civilian employees of the Department of Defense and only for operations authorized the AFSM for military personnel. No more than one medal may be awarded to any one civilian employee. Participation in subsequent military operations may be acknowledged with a Certificate of Commendation, AF Form 3034 and/or a 3/16 Bronze Service Star (NSN # 8455-00-082-6136). A contribution to or support of an AFSM military operation by employees assigned to remotely located activities, e.g., outside the areas of eligibility, is not justification for award of the AFCSM. Such performance or contribution, if merited, may be acknowledged by other appropriate recognition. Award of the AFCSM does not preclude granting other awards if the employee’s contribution to the designated operation is so significant or extraordinary as to merit additional recognition.

d. Posthumous Awards: The AFCSM may be awarded posthumously and, when so awarded, may be presented to a representative of the deceased as deemed appropriate.

Procedure:
Medals will be supported by appropriate written justification, not to exceed one page, explaining how the employee meets the...
criteria. Installations may accept other documents as proof of eligibility, i.e., official orders, travel vouchers, etc., as justification. The medal will not be documented in the official personnel folder. However, a code has been established in the Defense Civilian Personnel Data System (DCPDS) to document receipt of the medal in the employee's record (HAF Table 388, Code 87).

FINAL APPROVING AUTHORITY
Approval for the AFCSM is delegated to the major command or comparable organization commander, who may further delegate the approval authority.

MONETARY AMOUNT
None. The Institute of Heraldry developed the AFCSM. It is a bronze medal bearing on the obverse a torch (as on the Statue of Liberty) on a burst of rays encircled at the top by a scroll inscribed “SUPPORTING FREEDOM” and all enclosed by a laurel wreath. On the reverse, three crossed arrows point up with the inscription “ARMED FORCES CIVILIAN SERVICE MEDAL.” The medal is suspended from a ribbon of green, medium blue, and gold. There is a corresponding lapel pin. The medal set, consisting of the large medal and lapel pin, is currently available through the Defense Supply System (NSN 8455-01-452-5330).
Awards for Non-Government Employees

PURPOSE
To recognize significant contribution to the Department of Defense performed as a public service.

ELIGIBILITY
Personnel, group or organization may be considered for recognition except DoD military and civilian personnel eligible for recognition under AFI 36-1004 or the military decorations program, or persons or organizations having commercial or profit-making relationships with DoD or DoD component, unless it is shown the contributions are substantially beyond that specified or implied within the contract terms establishing the relationship, and is clearly in the public interest.

Recommendations for non-government employee awards are forwarded through command channels to HQ AFPC/DPPPR, Randolph AFB, Texas 78150-4714. The recommendation must include the individual's social security number, birth date, permanent home address, previous US decoration(s), if any, authority for the decorations, and inclusive service dates. In addition, for the Exceptional Service Award and the Air Force Scroll of Appreciation, the letter must state that the service cited was voluntary; was performed as a public service or motivated by patriotism, with no implication for remuneration; and the individual being recommended had no commercial or profitmaking relationship with the Air Force. For the Department of Defense Medal for Distinguished Public Service, the letter must indicate whether any form of remuneration, such as consultant fees, were received for the services cited. If so, specific comments must be included to clarify the personnel's status with the US government. In all cases nominating officials should find out if the presentation of the award would embarrass the Department of Defense, before submitting a nomination.

Sample Contributions:
Exemplary service in an advisory or technical capacity to a DoD component through actions or useful ideas that are beneficial in eliminating or minimizing problems or otherwise contributing to mission accomplishment; assistance through the cooperative use of facilities, equipment, or manpower; courageous or heroic actions in support of a DoD activity or mission; or other actions resulting in significant benefits to DoD.
