REGULATED
FACILITIES

Certain facilities conducting research are regulated under the Animal Welfare Act. [1.1]

A facility conducting regulated research activities on regulated animals is required to be registered as a research facility.

A facility includes, but is not limited to:

- school (see exemptions below)
- institution
- organization
- person

NOTE: A school conducting a veterinary technician training program must be registered if the facility:

- owns and house regulated animals
- conducts experimental procedures or research on regulated animals, regardless of who owns or houses the animals

Exemptions

The following facilities are exempt from the registration requirement:

- elementary schools [1.1]
- secondary schools [1.1]
- research facilities using only non-covered animals [1.1]
- Federal research facilities
 NOTE: Federal research facilities must establish an IACUC and comply with Section 2.31. However, the IACUC reports deficiencies to the head of the Federal agency. [2.37]
- veterinary technician training programs that meet the following criteria:
 - all the regulated animals used are owned, housed, and treated at a private animal shelter
 - all procedures are carried out on adoptable animals
 - the procedures are normally done to the shelter animals, regardless of their participation in the training program
 - the procedures are accepted veterinary or husbandry practices
 - all the procedures are done at the shelter

ANIMAL CARE 3.3.1

- no research is conducted on the animals
- the students are under the supervision of or directed by, as appropriate for the procedure being conducted:

R a veterinarian

R a licensed veterinary technician

R the shelter manager, or

R the shelter staff

A facility conducting research on a minimal number of animals other than dogs and cats may request an exemption from the registration requirement. The exemption request must:

- be in writing
- contain the details of the protocol
- justify why an exemption should be granted
- explain how the design of the protocol meets the intent of the AWA
- contain information on the facility's past and possibly future research activities
- give the name of any Federal funding source, if applicable
- be sent to the appropriate Animal Care Regional Office
