

David S. Turetsky
Vice President for Law and Regulatory Affairs
Teligent

As Vice President for Law and Regulatory Affairs for Teligent, David Turetsky is responsible for guiding an important new competitor in the local communications market through the thicket of federal, state and international communications law and public policy issues.

Teligent offers customers significant savings – up to 30 percent -- on local, long distance, Internet and other advanced communications services in 26 major markets throughout the United States, using proven digital microwave networks and other advanced technologies. Teligent delivers this service using its SmartWave™ technology. Teligent plans to launch commercial service in another 14 markets bringing to 40 the number of markets Teligent will serve by year-end 1999.

Small and medium-sized businesses, in particular, will benefit from the company's offerings of reliable, value-priced, high-bandwidth products, including voice, high-speed data, Internet access and audio and video conferencing.

Before he joined Teligent in May, 1997, Mr. Turetsky served as Deputy Assistant Attorney General for civil and regulatory affairs in the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice. He joined the Justice Department in October, 1993 as senior counsel to Assistant Attorney General Anne K. Bingaman. During his tenure at the Justice Department, Mr. Turetsky was involved in a wide range of antitrust issues, focusing on matters involving the media and telecommunications industry.

He acted as the department's principal liaison with the interagency group led by Vice President Al Gore that was charged with developing the Administration's policy on telecommunications issues. That effort culminated in the enactment of the Telecommunications Act of 1996. He has testified frequently before Congress on telecommunications and competition issues, both domestic and international.

Mr. Turetsky has represented the United States government in a variety of international forums on telecommunications policy. He also served as the Justice Department's representative on the White House group that worked for the successful conclusion of the World Trade Organization's negotiations on an international telecommunications accord.

Earlier, Mr. Turetsky was a litigation partner in the New York and New Jersey law offices of LeBoeuf, Lamb, Leiby & MacRae. He currently serves as a member of the Executive Committee of the Operating Board of Directors of ALTS (The Association for Local Telecommunications Services), the trade association of facilities-based competitive local exchange carriers. He also has served as vice chair of the committee on Legislation of the American Bar Association Section of Antitrust Law, and is a member of the Bar in New York and New Jersey.

A 1979 graduate of Amherst College, magna cum laude, Mr. Turetsky attended the London School of Economics and Political Science. He was awarded a J.D. by the University of Chicago School of Law, where he won the moot court competition.
